What's Inside

Bowden's F-16 Experience .. 6,7

Flight of a Lifetime

Analogies are often used to describe moments in athletic competitions, terms like "launching a strike", "war in the trenches," and "field of battle." Head Football Coach Tommy Bowden, who is known for his prolific passing offenses, discovered the true meaning of another such analogy, "air attack," on May 25, 2005.

Steven Jackson ..... 9

Senior Spotlight

The relentless fullback who transferred from East Tennessee State after the program dropped football, is positive there is at least one thing about his Clemson football experience he will always remember, and that is the first time he heard his name announced over the public address system at Memorial Stadium.

Bob Bradley ..... 12,13

2005 Ring of Honor Inductee

Read some stones from Bob Bradley's son, Robert, in an article written a month before Mr. B's death in 2000. We thought it would be an appropriate time to run it in this program, as today Bradley joins an elite group of Tiger athletic legends with his induction into the Clemson Ring of Honor at Memorial Stadium.

Thomas Hunter ..... 49

Senior Spotlight

After the hard work and determination Thomas Hunter has displayed at Clemson, it will be no surprise to see M.D. at the end of his name in the next few years. He has shown time and time again what hard work and determination can lead to. Read more about the former walk-on on page 49.

Miami Series History ..... 117

Clemson vs. Miami

Clemson and Miami have met only six times on the gridiron. However, with the Tigers and Hurricanes now in the same conference, the two teams will become more familiar with each other in the near future. Today's game will be the last matchup between the two teams in the regular season until the 2009 season.

Hall of Fame Class ..... 125-127

Today's Game

Tigers Off to 2-0 Start

When Clemson defeated Maryland in College Park on September 10, it gave the Tigers a 2-0 start to the season, Clemson's first 2-0 start since the 2001 campaign. It marked the third time that Head Coach Tommy Bowden has won his opening two contests, as he had an 8-0 start in the 2000 campaign.

Historically, Clemson has struggled in the second game of the year, a contributing factor to the Tigers achieving a 2-0 start just 10 times since 1971. The only other year Clemson has been 2-0 since 1992 was in 1997.

Starting off with a 2-0 record is an indicator of a strong season for the Tiger program over the last 35 years. In the seasons Clemson has started off the year by winning its first two games since 1971, the Tigers have an 81-25-1 record, a 76.2-percent winning mark. For those nine seasons, that is basically a 9-3 season. If Clemson can defeat Miami today, it would give Clemson its first 3-0 start since the 2000 season, and just its second 3-0 start since 1992.

Whitehurst Off to Efficient Start

Clemson quarterback Charlie Whitehurst is off to a strong start, leading the Tigers to consecutive victories over #17 Texas A&M and Maryland. In the two games combined, Whitehurst has completed 32-41 passes for 363 yards and two touchdowns without an interception. Whitehurst's pass efficiency rate is 168.5, 15th best in the nation and best in the ACC. A year ago, Whitehurst had a pass efficiency figure of 97.3. In the victory at Maryland, Whitehurst completed 18-22 passes, and the 81.8-percent completion mark was fourth best in Clemson history given a minimum of 15 attempts.

The graduate student from Duluth, GA has had nine games in his career in which he has had a pass efficiency rating of 150 or better, and two of the top seven ratings have come in the first two games with Spence as his coordinator. Whitehurst had a 155.5 efficiency rating in the win over the Aggies, the seventh best of his career, then had a 179.8 mark against Maryland, the fourth-most efficient game of his career.

Whitehurst Joins 20-Win Club

Charlie Whitehurst became the sixth 20-game winner among Clemson starting quarterbacks when the Tigers defeated Maryland 28-24 on September 10. He is the first Tiger quarterback to reach 20 wins in a career since Nealon Greene recorded 24 wins as a starter from 1994-97. Greene is still active in the game as the starting quarterback for Saskatchewan in the CFL.

Rodney Williams is the career leader with 32 victories, a total that is among the top-25 victory totals in NCAA history at the Division I level. Williams, a member of the Clemson Hall of Fame, guided the Tigers to three consecutive seasons of just two losses from 1986-88, and won three bowl games as a starting quarterback.

While Whitehurst cannot catch Williams on the career win list, he can reach second-ranked Greene with just four more wins. Other Tiger 20-game winners are Homer Jordan, Steve Fuller, and Mike Eppley. Whitehurst is sixth on the victory list, ahead of DeChane Cameron and Woodrow Dantzler.

With the win over #17 Texas A&M, Whitehurst has five top-25 wins. He moved ahead of Jordan, Eppley, and Greene in career wins over top-25 teams with the win over the Aggies. He trails only Williams, who had seven top-25 wins between 1986-88. Whitehurst is 5-4 against ranked teams in his career (including 5-2 in his last seven games), while Williams was 7-4. Whitehurst will have another opportunity when the Tigers face the Hurricanes.

Reggie Merriweather's 38-yard touchdown run at Maryland last Saturday was his third game-winning touchdown of his career.

Another Last Second Tiger Victory

Eight of the last 13 Clemson games have been decided by seven points or less, and all on plays within the last three minutes of the game or in overtime. Clemson has won six of those eight games with either pivotal offensive or defensive plays. The 42-yard field goal by Jad Dean that gave Clemson a 25-24 win over #17 Texas A&M came with just two seconds left, and was the latest game-winning field goal by a Tiger since David Treadwell's 21-yard field goal with two seconds left to beat Georgia in 1987.

The Tigers followed that with the win at Maryland on a 38-yard run by Reggie Merriweather with 2:58 left. The Tiger defense then forced Maryland to relinquish the ball with 47 seconds remaining.

Clemson has had many a close victory under Tommy Bowden. Since he became the head coach in 1999, Clemson has registered 10 victories in which it has scored the winning points in the fourth quarter. Eight of the 10 have come with offensive plays inside the last 23 seconds or in overtime.

Merriweather Sets Tiger Record

Running back Reggie Merriweather scored the game-winning touchdown for the Tigers in the 28-24 win at Maryland last weekend. His 38-yard jaunt around right end with 2:58 left marked the second straight year and third time in his career that he had scored a game-winning touchdown with three minutes or less left in a game. In fact, it was the third time he had done it in the last seven games.

Merriweather scored from two yards out with 23 seconds left to give Clemson a 10-7 win over Maryland in 2004, then scored from a yard out in overtime at Miami. Clemson kept the Hurricanes out of the endzone, and the Tigers had the victory.

When he scored his game winner at Maryland, he became the first Tiger in history to score three fourth-quarter, game-winning touchdowns in a career. Prior to Saturday, Merriweather was joined in the recordbook by Fred Cone, Doug Cline, George Usry, Lowndes Shingler, and Jerry Butler.

Merriweather is now one game-winning play behind David Treadwell. Treadwell booted a fourth-quarter, game-winning field goal for Clemson four times in his career, including consecutive years within the last 10 seconds against Georgia (1986,87).

Two Top-25 Teams Meet in Death Valley

Clemson and Miami are both ranked in the top 25 of both polls this week, the first time two top-25 teams have met in Death Valley since November 18, 2000, when #16 Clemson met #25 South Carolina. The Tigers won that exciting game thanks to a late 50-yard pass from Woodrow Dantzler to Rod Gardner and a game-winning 25-yard field goal by Aaron Hunt with three seconds left.

Miami did not play last week, but is still ranked #13 in the nation in both polls. The Tigers are #20

Today's Game

in AP and #23 in the USA Today poll. It is the second straight week Clemson has been ranked in the AP top 25, the first time this year Clemson has appeared in the top 25 of the coaches' poll.

This will be the 14th time in history that a top-25 Tiger team has played a top-25 opponent in Death Valley. Clemson has a 9-4 record in those 13 top-25 meetings. A pair of top-25 teams met in Death Valley just twice in the first 40 years of the stadium, but there have been 11 in the last 23 seasons.

Three of the four losses by Clemson in battles of top-25 teams in Death Valley have been against Florida State (1988, 92, 97). When Clemson defeated Florida State in 2003, the Seminoles were ranked #3, but Clemson was unranked. The only other team to defeat Clemson in a battle of top-25 teams in Death Valley is Notre Dame (1977). That year, Clemson was #15 and the Irish were #5. Notre Dame scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter behind Joe Montana to take a 21-17 victory. The Irish went on to win the National Championship.

Clemson has had success when it enters a game in Death Valley as a top-25 team. Over the years, Clemson is 70-14-3 in games played at home as a top-25 team, an 81.6-percent winning mark.

Miami Update

Clemson has quite a task on Saturday when it plays host to Miami for the first time in history. The Hurricanes are coming off a 10-7 loss to Florida State in the season opener in Tallahassee. If Clemson defeats Larry Coker's team, it would give Miami an 0-2 start for the first time since 1978 when the late Lou Saban was the head coach of the Hurricanes.

Sending a prominent program to an 0-2 start is not unprecedented in Tiger history, however. In 1989, Clemson took on a 0-1 Florida State team in Tallahassee after Bobby Bowden's team suffered a 30-26 loss to Southern Mississippi and Brett Favre in the opening game. The Tigers defeated the #16 Seminoles 34-23 to send them to 0-2 for the season. The Seminoles did not lose the rest of the year, and finished 10-2 and ranked #3 in the nation.

Clemson did defeat a Miami team coming off a loss just last year. The Hurricanes, then ranked #4 in the nation, lost at North Carolina 31-28 the week prior to losing to Clemson 24-17 in overtime. Miami is 44-7 under Coker, but does have a pair of two-game losing streaks.

The Hurricanes have one of the strongest defenses in the nation. They allowed just 10 points and 170 yards of total offense in the season opener at Florida State. The Seminoles completed just 8-26 passes for 74 yards and averaged just 2.9 yards per play. It will be quite a challenge for Tommy Bowden, new Offensive Coordinator Rob Spence, and veteran quarterback Charlie Whitehurst.

While Clemson has a star player named Merriweather, so does Miami, with a slightly different spelling. One of the top defensive players in the ACC, Brandon Meriweather had seven tackles in the season opener, broke up a pair of passes, and had a recovered fumble at Florida State. The junior from Apopka, FL had 62 tackles last year when he started seven games. Jon Beason, a sophomore from Miramar, FL, was the top tackler for the Hurricane defense against Florida State with eight stops, including two tackles for loss.

Miami had a 100-yard rusher, a 100-yard receiver, and a 200-yard passer, yet lost the game to Florida State. The Hurricanes had 313 yards of total offense against the Seminoles, led by Kyle Wright, who had 232 yards passing in his first college start. Tyrone Moss had 23 carries for 102 yards to lead the ground attack, which benefits from the return of All-America offensive tackle Eric Winston, who missed last year due to injury. Tight end Greg Olsen also had eight catches for 137 yards at Florida State.

First-Time Winners at Death Valley

Miami will attempt to become just the second first-time visitor in the last 28 years to win at Death Valley. The only opponent since 1978 to win in its first visit to Clemson was Marshall, a 13-10 winner in the season opener of the 1999 season, Tommy Bowden's first game as the Tigers' head coach. Prior to that, the last first-appearance winner at Clemson was Notre Dame in 1977.

Miami is the 46th-different team to come to Memorial Stadium, and the previous 45 have a record of 11-33-1 in their first game in Tigertown. Three of the 11 first-time winners (Alabama, Kentucky, Marshall) have beaten the Tigers by the exact same score (13-10).

A look to Clemson's home record over the years shows why the Tigers enjoy playing in Death Valley. Clemson has a record of 301-114-15 at home over the years, a 71.7-percent winning mark. Clemson is 246-255-25 away from home, a 49.0-percent winning mark for those 526 games on an opponents' home fields. Clemson is also 55-44-5 in neutral-site games. Clemson now has 602 all-time victories, 301 at home and 301 away from home.

Clemson has a 228-88-7 record in Death Valley (since 1942), a 71.7-percent winning mark, in 323 games. Tommy Bowden has followed the lead of his predecessors when it comes to playing at home. He is 29-10 so far in his 39 home games, a 74.4-percent winning mark. Clemson has won five in a row at home and 12 of the last 13. The only loss in that 13-game span was to Georgia Tech in the second game of the 2004 season.

Tigers Perfect in Turnover Column

One of the reasons for Clemson's 2-0 start is the turnover-margin statistic. The Tigers ranked 100th in the nation out of 117 teams in turnover margin last year, including a dead-last ranking after the first five games (1-4) when Clemson lost 14 turnovers on offense and gained just two on defense.

Clemson has forced four turnovers so far this season on defense, but has yet to commit a turnover on offense. This is the first time since the 1994 season that Clemson has gone consecutive games without a turnover. Clemson did not have a turnover against North Carolina and Georgia Tech in consecutive games in November that year.

Most coaches will say that winning the turnover statistic, or limiting turnovers on offense, will usually lead to victory. That has been the case with Clemson. The Tigers have now won 11 consecutive games dating to 2002 when it wins the turnover-margin stat (forces more turnovers than it commits). Clemson is 28-7 under Tommy Bowden when the Tigers win the turnover-margin stat. Clemson has had 11 games under Bowden when it has not committed a turnover on offense, and the Tigers are 10-1 in those games.

New Orleans Duo Leads Way at Maryland

Two starting members of the Tiger football team from New Orleans, LA played at a high level in the victory over Maryland. Both had to be playing with distractions, as their families have been displaced by Hurricane Katrina. Starting wide receiver Curtis Baham and starting linebacker Nick Watkins have accounted for all of their relatives, but their family homes and cherished belongings are probably gone forever.

Both put the distractions behind them at Maryland and had career games. Baham caught a pair of touchdown passes, a first in his career and the first Tiger to do that since 2003. His day included touchdown catches of six and 51 yards. The 51-yarder brought Clemson to within three points in the fourth quarter, and it was the longest catch of his career by 27 yards.

Watkins was the second-leading tackler on the defense with a career-high 13 tackles, including a team-best 10 first hits. His afternoon included six special-teams tackles, including five solo stops on punts and kickoffs. He earned ACC Specialist-of-the-Week honors for his efforts. That was the second-highest, single-game, special-teams total in Tiger history, trailing only the seven special-team tackles recorded by Chad Speck at Georgia Tech in 1999.

Tommy Bowden's F-16 Experience

Flight of a Lifetime

By Louis Garmendia

Analogies are often used to describe moments in athletic competitions, terms like "launching a strike," "war in the trenches," and "field of battle." Clemson Head Football Coach Tommy Bowden, who is known for his prolific passing offenses, discovered the true meaning of another such analogy, "air attack," on May 25, 2005.

For Bowden, the day was years in the making. He often went to IPTAY spring meetings with Tiger Letterwinners Association Coordinator Charlie Bussey, who himself had been an Air Force pilot. The two often talked about the military, with Bowden often expressing his admiration for the men and women who serve.

Like his father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, Tommy has been an avid history buff when it comes to the military. When Bussey informed the coach about a program that may allow him to take a ride in an F-16, Bowden's interest peaked.

The program is called the Civic Leader Orientation Flight, and its participants include politicians, celebrities, and other public figures. Coordinated through the United States Air Force and the Air National Guard, the program is designed to promote and bring recognition to the military, its mission, and capabilities. Participants must be nominated and approved, and the opportunity to fly in an F-16 is considered a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

Bussey, with the aid of Clemson Corps and U.S. Air Force ROTC personnel, got the nomination and approval process started. Athletic Director Dr. Terry Don Phillips wrote the letter of nomination, and in a short period of time, Bowden was approved for the flight.

In May, the flight became reality for Bowden courtesy of the South Carolina Air National Guard. The SCANG was formed in December of 1946, and today is composed of 1,200 members who train at McEntire ANG Station. Seventy-five percent of the members are civilians. As with sports teams, the outfit has a nickname (Swamp Foxes), which comes from South Carolina's first militia man, Francis Marion.

Bowden took his first flight of the day in the morning, boarding the Clemson school plane and flying to McEntire ANG Station. The base is located just outside Columbia, SC in the heart of Gamecock country, and Bowden was greeted by the theme song of "2001" when he entered the Life Support area at 10:00 AM.

But Bowden was treated like a member of the 169th Fighter Wing, the primary unit of the SCANG. From physical, to flight simulator, to landing, the Tigers' head man was left with an unmistakable impression.

"I've always been patriotic and very supportive of our military, and as I watched the skill, professionalism, and pride demonstrated by the officers and airmen, I was almost in awe," said Bowden. "I kept reminding myself that these men and women have dedicated their lives to protecting my nation, my family, and our way of life."

As he prepared for his flight of a lifetime, call sign Demon 51, Bowden was both excited and wary upon meeting his pilot. Capt. Rick Noble is a Clemson alumnus (class of 1995), meaning Bowden was in good hands. However, his call sign is nothing like "Maverick" or "Iceman." Noble goes by "Slammer."

The two got down to business at 1:30 PM for the preflight briefing, perhaps one of the first in South Carolina Air National Guard history to be attended by almost a dozen members of the media. The flight was to take off and immediately climb 10,000 feet in 10 seconds, pulling 6.7 Gs in the process. One "G" is considered the force of gravity, and an F-16 can pull a maximum of nine Gs.

Demon 51 would then fly over Clemson in approximately seven minutes, allowing Bowden to get an overhead view of the University and his home. (He could not check out his players working hard at conditioning, however, since that would be an NCAA violation.)

"I called my wife before we took off, and told her to go outside in the front yard and watch us fly over," he said. Members of the Clemson athletic department also went into the parking lot at the McFadden Building to view the plane from overhead.

The flight would then head towards the coast for some maneuvering before heading back to McEntire. "The most similar analogy would be standing at the top of the Hill," said Bowden. "It is a unique experience."

While Bowden was in for the ride of his life, the one-hour mission would be a walk in the park for Capt. Noble. He was deployed with the rest of the 169th to Iraq, where the squadron flew over 400 missions in 2002 and 2003. Noble and his wife will be present for today's game with Miami.

The takeoff went according to plan, with the F-16 immediately climbing vertically after liftoff. When Demon 51 landed, it turned out things went as smoothly as possible. Bowden returned the gallon-sized zip lock bags he was given in case he got sick unused, and emerged from the spotless cockpit. He did not blackout, as happens frequently to those unaccustomed to such body strain. The coach even pulled nine Gs and took control of the maneuvering for a few minutes in a flight that went 15 minutes longer than scheduled.

"He took everything I gave him and asked for more," said Noble, just before presenting Bowden with a pin commemorating the nine G accomplishment.

Tommy Bowden's F-16 Experience

Flight of a Lifetime

After signing more autographs, taking more pictures, as he had done throughout the day, and thanking the men and women of McEntire that made the day possible, Bowden took his third flight of the day. Instead of zipping to Clemson in an F-16 in seven minutes, he had a 30-minute flight on the school plane, with time to reflect on an adventurous day. Later in the summer, Bowden was presented with a miniature replica of the plane, which he proudly displays in his office.

Already respectful of the military, Bowden gained a deeper appreciation of the organization by experiencing, on a smaller scale, the processes and procedures our soldiers and airmen go through in order to defend the country. And no military analogy used in the football world will ever have quite the same ring to it.

"I hope all of those patriots know what a great thrill this coach had, just being in their presence," he said. "I recognized the similarities between their jobs and mine (discipline, attention to detail, hard work, etc.), but there is no way I can compare coaching football to what these true legends do. After all, they lay it on the line everyday, much of the time separated from their families. After being with them, I'm prouder than ever to be an American."

Tigers' "Top Gun" Timeline

5:30 AM - Morning workout including weightlifting and a jog. Coach Bowden runs only five miles instead of the usual eight miles in preparation for his flight.

8:15 AM - Meet at Oconee County Airport

8:30 AM - Take off for McEntire South Carolina National Guard Air Base

9:00 AM - Land and met by welcoming party including Lt. Col. Les Carroll and Wing Commander Colonel Keith Coln. "We've flown Congressmen and Senators before, but they don't get this much attention," said Carroll in reference to the dozen or so expected media members later in the afternoon. "If everyone shows up who has requested to come, there will be more media here than when we go to war."

9:15 AM - A tour of the base leads to Colonel Coln's office, which is full of photos and various pieces from past combat missions. A photo of a T-38 plane adorns one wall. "I flew on one of those," said Tiger Letterwinners Association Coordinator Charlie Bussey, who flew in the Air Force (1958-66). "Wow!" exclaims Coach Bowden. "That's a color photo!"

9:45 AM - Coach Bowden meets with the base's physician, who tells the coach what kind of physical experience to expect.

10:00 AM - Meeting with the Life Support unit. The theme song from "2001" plays as Coach Bowden walks in. "That means we're winning today," he laughs. "When I hear that music, it means a 'W.'" Coach Bowden puts on his flight suit, boots, helmet, and G-suit, which is used to help keep oxygen flowing throughout the body. He is also given two small bags in case his lunch decides to come back up during the flight.

10:30 AM - He enters a ground egress simulator. The device is shaped just like a jet's cockpit, but is not similar to any arcade or computer game. It is used to familiarize the pilot with ejection procedures, both on the ground and in the air, and other emergency situations. He also straps in to a harness dangling from the ceiling to simulate a parachute and all of the potential dangers that can be encountered when deployed. He is trained by Staff Sergeants Kyle Dymont and former Clemson student Danny Payne, who walked-on to the football team in the late 1980s.

11:00 AM - After getting out of his G-suit and putting it in locker #24, Coach Bowden heads to the hangar to sign autographs and take pictures with base personnel and their families.

11:45 AM - Lunch at Bunky's

1:00 PM - After returning from lunch, Coach Bowden meets with the media for a preflight press conference. The one-liners were plentiful.

Q: "What does your wife think of this?"

A: "She increased my life insurance yesterday."

Q: "How do you expect it to be up there?"

A: "Where's Captain (Rick) Noble? His nickname (Slammer) scares me a little bit."

Q: "Do you have any places you want to visit?"

A: "Yeah, there are a couple of recruiting stops I need to make. I've got some calls out telling people to open up their windows around 3:00 and I'll buzz 'em."

Q: "Isn't your pilot today a Clemson graduate?"

A: "Yes. I'm hoping he was an 'A' student."

1:30 PM - Preflight briefing. Captain Noble goes over the flight plan along with the communication and emergency procedures. The flight cannot break the sound barrier, making the top speed around 600 miles per hour. The flight will be approximately one hour and will go to Clemson, the South Carolina coast, then back to McEntire Air Force Base. After takeoff, the F-16 will climb 10,000 feet in 10 seconds and arrive in Clemson approximately seven minutes later. "We can do whatever you want to do," Noble tells Bowden. "Most people have enough around five or six Gs, but we can do more if you want to." A "G" is the weight of gravity. An F-16 can go up to nine Gs, or nine times the weight of gravity.

2:00 PM - After making a call to his other pilot, wife Linda, signing more autographs and making one last bathroom stop, Coach Bowden puts on his full flight gear and heads to the runway.

2:45 PM - Preflight check in the cockpit. Members of the media cleared off the runway.

2:58 PM - Flight Demon 51 takes off and immediately climbs 10,000 feet while pulling six Gs. "We'll know how much he can take by their flight pattern," says Col. Coln. "If they come in with a nice easy landing in less than an hour, he's had enough."

4:18 PM - Twenty minutes later than scheduled, Demon 51 returns and buzzes the tower before circling around to land.

4:25 PM - Coach Bowden sets two feet back on the ground and is immediately swarmed by media. "You come in with a great respect for the military, and you leave here after today with more respect for what they do and what they've accomplished."

Q: "Did you try to strike Williams-Brice Stadium?"

A: "I pushed the button, but they were firing blanks."

Q: "How boring will the plane ride home be now?"

A: "We're gonna have to upgrade our service. Maybe if we can get 10 wins, we'll get one of these jets."

Captain Noble also speaks with the press. "He took everything I gave him and asked for more," said Noble. Coach Bowden is then presented with a pin for pulling nine Gs.

4:50 PM - After more pictures and autographs, Coach Bowden gets out of his flight suit and back into civilian clothes. He returns the two small bags unused. He and Bussey present Clemson hats and shirts to members of the 169th, who in turn present the coach with a document certifying his achievement.

5:10 PM - After some final pictures and autographs, Coach Bowden boards the school plane.

5:20 PM - Plane takes off headed back to Clemson.

5:50 PM - Passengers and crew land at Oconee County Airport, and Coach Bowden heads home for the day.

Steven Jackson

Senior Spotlight

By Brian Kennelly

Steven Jackson is positive there is at least one thing about his Clemson football experience he will always remember, and that is the first time he heard his name announced over the public address system at Memorial Stadium.

"Hearing my name for the first time was really a great feeling," Jackson said with a smile. "I won't ever forget that."

One thing the rest of us are positive about is that if the Sporting News prediction that Jackson will be the top special teams player in the ACC this year is accurate, then he could be hearing his name echoing through Death Valley a whole lot more.

If you ask him about that prediction, however, you will not see a boastful athlete, but rather an embarrassed grin and an explanation on why he does not think about individual accolades. "I try not to think about all that kind of stuff. I work hard so that I can help the team. All that other stuff is just something extra."

If you then proceed to ask Jackson about the team, you will not see someone who is discouraged or intimidated to play one of the toughest schedules in the country, but rather an excited young man whose confidence could sway even the most pessimistic of Tiger fans. "I think every team goes in thinking National Championship, so there is really no reason we shouldn't think the same. We just have to take one game at a time and we'll be alright."

That's who Steven Jackson is. A team player who has earned three team dedication awards for his work in the strength facility (more than any other player) and is arguably the strongest Tiger on the field, something the Hurricanes might find out the hard way if they happen to run into #35 on Saturday.

Jackson is in the top five on the team in four strength training categories, including an amazing 445-pound bench press and a 595-pound squat lift. His work in the weight room has made him quite a force on the field.

Jackson's route to Clemson was an unusual one, really unprecedented in Tiger football history. He played high school football at Spring Valley High in Columbia, SC, two hours away from Tigertown. As an offensive and defensive star in the hometown of Clemson's top rival, he was able to become a two-time all-region selection, as well as earn a AAA All-State selection as a senior.

Despite his high school success, the big Division I offers did not come in. Jackson decided to accept a scholarship from Southern Conference school East Tennessee State.

"At the time, that was the best opportunity I had," he explained. "None of the big schools were interested in me."

Instead of hanging his head and giving up, he went off to the small town of Johnson City, TN. During his freshman year, he did not red-shirt and started four games for the Buccaneers on the defensive line, and contributed in all 11 games. Jackson recorded 39 tackles as a freshman, while also leading the team in caused fumbles. All of that earned him a spot on the 2002 All-Freshman Southern Conference team. By the end of his freshman year, his career at East Tennessee State was very bright.

However, due to a lack of funds, the school decided to end its football program, leaving players like Jackson with a decision to make.

While some decided to end their football careers, other players pursued transfer offers. For him, it was not a hard decision when transferring to Clemson became an option. NCAA rules state that if a program is dropped at a school, a student-athlete can transfer to another school without sitting out a season.

Coming to school at Clemson would mean he was only two hours away from his home in Columbia. It would also mean a whole different type of football experience.

"The atmosphere, the crowd is probably the biggest difference. I was used to playing in front of about 500 people up there. Sometimes it would be more if we were playing a big rival. But it was still nothing compared to Clemson."

Apparently, switching to crowds of 80,000-plus has not affected his abilities. Jackson has been a solid contributor on offense at the fullback position, a dramatically different position from the defensive line.

"I really didn't think switching was all that hard. I bring a defensive mentality to the offense, and that comes in handy playing fullback."

This year, he is listed as the first-team fullback on the depth chart, so he can expect to see more action than he has seen in past seasons when he played more of a reserve roll. Fullback has been an important position in Rob Spence's offensive sets in the past, so Jackson will be a big contributor this season.

In addition to his fullback duties, he has also shined on special teams. Jackson has ranked in the top three on the team in special team tackles in each of the last two seasons, as well as causing and recovering a few fumbles. His best special teams moment came last year when he recovered a fumble on the opening kickoff of the South Carolina game, helping send an early message to the in-state rival.

"The opening kickoff has always been my favorite part of the game," said Jackson. "That one I definitely won't forget."

The play set the tone for the game, and the Tigers went on to beat the Gamecocks for the third-straight year by a score of 29-7. Jackson played a career-high 39 snaps in the contest, as Clemson had a successful ground attack. His blocking was a big reason Reggie Merriweather gained over 100 yards and scored three touchdowns. With a win over South Carolina this year, he can finish his career with an undefeated record against the Gamecocks.

Jackson has also made quite a name for himself in the classroom. He has been named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll each of his two years at Clemson, as well as winning the highest GPA Award for juniors during the 2004 season. It is hard for any student to transfer for numerous reasons, including problems with credit hours not transferring, but he is on track to graduate in May with a degree in human resource development.

Jackson has consistently been a fine example for the younger players on what a true student-athlete should strive to be. He is unsure of his future after college, but is keeping his options open and trusting in what God has planned for him.

"We'll see about my future in football," he said. "I've been doing pretty well in school though, so I will find a good job with my degree. It's all in God's hands."

Jackson has shown a knack for coming on strong at the end of the season, which is a sign of his hard work with strength and conditioning paying off. He gives credit to his father for his competitive drive, who is a former baseball standout.

"I don't really model my game after anyone, but I know I get my competitive nature from my dad."

With Jackson stepping to the forefront when his name is called by Coach Bowden, or over the Death Valley public address system, Clemson fans can be assured he will be giving his all today.

"Al, don't make such a big deal about this."

Minutes before a kickoff at Clemson, Al Adams picks up the microphone he will use throughout the game to inform the media inside the press box of the goings-on down on the playing field.

"Good afternoon, and welcome to Clemson Memorial Stadium and the Bob Bradley Press Box for today's game between Clemson and Furman. Today's game is the 475th consecutive for former Clemson SID Bob Bradley."

"Peckerwood. I wish he'd quit with all that stuff," says my dad, Bob Bradley.

And so it went for the rest of the 1998 season. Dad would, in his stern, Southern drawl, fuss with Al at every home game for upping the number and making the announcement.

But anyone who knows my father understands. He has never liked being in the limelight one bit - he'd rather make it for someone else. To say he's humble would be, as he told me once before about the Grand Canyon - "It's just a big ditch."

Maybe that's what has made dad so special over the years. He's never one to talk about - let alone brag about - any accolades he receives. I usually found out by reading the newspaper and hearing it on television.

Maybe another thing that has made him so special is the way he treats people. It doesn't matter to him if it's a writer from Sports Illustrated magazine, or The New York Times, or some weekly newspaper from the lower part of the state; the reception is always the same. "Mr. B," as he is affectionately called by just about everyone, greets each with a smile and calls him or her by name. Even the writers that he may only see once a year receive the same treatment.

"I remember when we played Auburn..."

Whereas many people may remember a particular game, it's the people daddy remembers. At a Clemson game earlier this year, a man stopped daddy on his trip to the press box. The man stuck his hand out and said he was Jim Sursavage. Before he could say his next sentence, dad said, "From Andrews, NC, brother of Frank Sursavage."

I don't know why, but I was amazed that he remembered where a couple of football players who played at Clemson 35 years ago are from.

But then again, that's dad. During one of my daughter's softball games last spring, mom and dad had come over from Clemson. Dad was keeping the scorebook for me. Midway through, I went over to the fence and told him Katie Countryman was going in to play right field.

After the game, dad came up to Katie and asked if she had any relatives who played baseball at Auburn. She shrugged her shoulders and looked at me, wondering what he was talking about. Dad told her that in the late 1960s Clemson played Auburn in the NCAA Baseball Tournament in Gastonia, NC. Auburn had a second baseman named Countryman, and he was just curious if she was related.

Saturday was special

Saturday (September 30, 2000) was a special game for dad. It marked 500 consecutive Clemson football games as sports information director or sports information director emeritas. He's seen more than that (he guesses around 540), but he hasn't missed a Clemson football game since the Tigers played South Carolina on October 20, 1955.

During that stretch, he has worked with Frank Howard, Hootie Ingram, Red Parker, Charley Pell, Danny Ford, Ken Hatfield, Tommy West, and Tommy Bowden. Nine men have occupied the Clemson Football White House.

The industry has changed dramatically. When dad first got in the business, writers would dictate their stories back to their newspaper. Games were recorded on film. Dad used to go on the road a couple of days before the team and stop at numerous newspapers, television, and radio stations, giving the scoop on Clemson to the local media.

Now it's done electronically. There are cell phones and pagers to keep writers in touch with their offices. There are computers and digital cameras, making the information available instantly.

But there's still dad, doing things the old way. He keeps all his records in a notebook that he updates after every game. He uses a typewriter. When the athletic department bought dad a computer, he never turned it on. He wanted his old typewriter back.

The "information age" has left him in the dust. Through it all, though, he has remained as solid as Howard's Rock. For the past three years, dad has battled bone cancer and heart surgery. Through it all, he keeps on ticking.

When he was coming out of the heart surgery, my sister Dorma leaned over and told him, "Daddy, we beat the Chickens (South Carolina) last night (in baseball)." He nodded his head and grinned at us. We knew then he would be OK.

Football gives him energy

The heart is as strong now as ever. His love for people and their love for him is, too. The bone cancer, however, is taking its toll on him. Dad has had more than 100 chemotherapy treatments. He looked as if he was about whipped late in the summer, and we began to wonder how many football games this beloved man would make this year.

But with the old gleam in his eye and smile on his face, he's been there for them all. Football has given him renewed life. He has to use a cane to get around now. We have a parking spot right at the back gate of Death Valley and they pick him up with a golf cart. He mutters to me through it all that too many people are making too big a fuss over him.

I just smile back and think to myself, no they're not. They're repaying you with kindness just like you would them. No one is doing any more than you have.

When the cart pulls up to the Bob Bradley Press Box for Saturday's game against N.C. State, you will again be greeted with warm smiles, handshakes, and a few kisses from the girls. I will stand beside you and help you to your seat where we will once again team up to type the play-by-play. I will answer a hundred questions about how your health is and have as many people comment to me about how much they admire and respect you.

A few years ago, I probably would have resented some of those remarks, because I felt they saw dad more than I did when I was growing up. There have been times that I may have felt cheated because of the amount of time he put into his job.

I'm older and wiser now. I still wish we had been able to spend more time together, and I treasure all the time now we do have. But through it all, there is one thing that I can say that only one other person in the world can claim - ya'll call him Mr. B; Dorma and I call him daddy.

Clemson University President James F. Barker came to the office in 1999 with a clear vision of Clemson's future. A 1970 Clemson University graduate, Barker has established a goal of making the university one of the nation's top-20 public universities - an institution that draws outstanding faculty and students, provides an unmatched academic experience, and helps drive the state's economic development.

Clemson has made significant strides in this area and reached a #34 ranking among public institutions according to U.S. News & World Report in 2006. That represents a five-position jump in the last three years and a 38-position improvement since 1997.

"South Carolina needs a top-tier research university, and our students deserve to have access to a top-tier education without leaving their home state," he said. "Building Clemson's academic, research, and service programs to the level where we can compete with anyone will benefit our state, our students, and our alumni."

Clemson, already South Carolina's top-ranked public university, is making strides toward that goal. During Barker's presidency, the university has:

- been recognized as TIME Magazine's Public College-of-the-Year;
- developed an academic strategic plan with eight emphasis areas aligned with the state's economic needs;
- implemented an enrollment management plan to protect the quality of classroom teaching and allow for more student/faculty interaction;
- redesigned the general education curriculum to focus on learning outcomes, and give undergraduates more opportunities for study abroad, service-learning, and research activities;
- more than doubled external research funding; and
- completed Clemson's largest capital campaign.

Working with private industry and state leaders, Barker also has steered Clemson into a greater economic development role. In a span of just six months, Clemson broke ground for the Clemson University International Center for Automotive Research (Clemson-ICAR) in Greenville, SC, dedicated a state-of-the-art

Building a Future for Clemson

biosystems research complex, and constructed a state-of-the-art Advanced Materials Research Laboratory at the Clemson Research Park. All three projects represent substantial investment in areas related to South Carolina's most promising economic clusters.

Barker also is becoming a leading voice in higher education in South Carolina and beyond. He chaired the Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the regional accrediting body, during a period that included the search for a new president, and served as chair of the ACC Council of Presidents for three consecutive years, including the 2003-04 academic year when he was significantly involved in the expansion of the league with the addition of Boston College, Miami (FL), and Virginia Tech.

He also has earned recognition as a community leader, receiving South Carolina's Order of the Palmetto, induction into the Boys & Girls Club Hall of Fame, the Greater Greenville Chamber of Commerce's Buck Mickel Award for Business and Community Leadership, and Anderson Independent-Mail's "Pointing the Way" Leadership Award for Community Service.

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson in 1970 and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in Saint Louis, MO in 1973. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

Barker's Goals by 2010

Academics, Research, & Service

1. Excel in teaching, at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.
2. Increase research and sponsored programs to exceed $100 million a year in research support.
3. Set the standard in public service for land-grant universities by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach, including a focus on strategic emphasis areas.
4. Foster Clemson's academic reputation through strong academic programs, mission-oriented research and academic centers of excellence, relevant public service, and highly-regarded faculty and staff.
5. Seek and cultivate areas where teaching, research, and service overlap.

Campus Life

1. Strengthen our sense of community and increase our diversity.
2. Recognize and appreciate Clemson's distinctiveness.
3. Create greater awareness of international programs and increase activity in this area.
4. Increase our focus on collaboration.
5. Maintain an environment that is healthy, safe, and attractive.

Clemson's National Reputation

1. Promote high integrity and professional demeanor among all members of the University community.
2. Establish a Phi Beta Kappa chapter.
3. Have at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships.
4. Send student ensembles to perform at Carnegie Hall.
5. Have at least two Clemson faculty members win recognition by national academies.
6. Publicize both national and international accomplishments of faculty, staff, and students.
7. While maintaining full compliance, achieve notable recognition with another national football championship, two championships in Olympic sports, and two Final Four appearances in basketball.

Educational Resources

1. Campaign goal surpassed by 40 percent.
2. Rededicate our energy and resources to improving the library.
3. Increase faculty compensation to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
4. Increase academic expenditures per student to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
5. Manage enrollment to ensure the highest quality classroom experiences.

Student Performance

1. Attract more students who are ranked in the top-10 percent of their high school classes and who perform exceptionally well on the SAT/ACT.
2. Promote high graduation rates by increasing freshman retention, meeting expectations of high achievers, and providing support systems for all students.
3. Promote excellence in advising.
4. Increase the annual number of doctoral graduates to the level of a top-20 public research university.
5. Improve the national competitiveness of graduate student admissions and financial aid.

Barker, Clemson's 14th President, is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. He was also named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects.

The Barkers, Jim and Marcia, have a son and daughter-in-law, Jacob and Rita Bolt Barker, and another son, Britt.

Dr. Terry Don Phillips

Athletic Director

Clemson Athletic Director Dr. Terry Don Phillips is known for his love of Tiger traditions, spirit, and pride, deemed Solid Orange. Yet his deep satisfaction comes with what that united Clemson strength of mind brings, "a reality toward building a model program that can compete at the highest levels in all sports."

As visible as the statewide "orange outbreak" of Tiger faithful that Phillips promotes, a towering mark of his mission emerged this year when his plan for the WestZone expansion of Memorial Stadium progressed to near round-the-clock construction. As has been his style for over 25 years in all aspects of athletic administration, his focus is on enhancing the infrastructure in a deliberate, quality manner.

"There's nothing worse than trying to maintain status quo," said Phillips, who became Clemson's 10th athletic director on July 1, 2002. That motto has been a basic tenet that has characterized his career as an administrator and his pursuit to develop Clemson into a model athletic program in the 21st century. His beliefs are in line with the University's overall goal of making Clemson one of the top-20 public universities in the nation.

His resolve comes from a unique balance of experience in nearly every phase of college athletics as well as a devotion to higher education that includes both a doctorate and law degree. He remains a classroom presence by teaching a Sports Law section for Clemson's Department of Accountancy and Legal Studies. In addition, Phillips is chair of the NCAA Division I Infractions Appeals Committee, which serves the appellate role for all university and individual appeals arising from the Committee on Infractions.

Those influences are obvious in his strategic plan for Clemson Athletics, which provides for a model program that can compete at the highest levels with academic integrity, concern for the student-athlete, financial responsibility, and in full compliance.

Steady strides have been made toward these goals through facility improvements and the development of concepts that will serve the entire program, starting with the current endzone expansion at Memorial Stadium. This fall, the facility will feature new lockerrooms for both teams and a new video scoreboard. In 2006, 1,000 premium club seats will open and create a vital new revenue stream for future facilities.

After the completion of the club seats, plans call for a new comprehensive football building at Memorial Stadium. It will benefit the entire department, as it will create additional updated facilities in the McFadden Building for Clemson's Olympic sports program. A "One Clemson Center" will also be constructed to showcase the history of Clemson University, including its military and athletic heritage.

Since Phillips' arrival at Clemson, many highlights toward being a model program have occurred on the field as well, beginning with Clemson's first-ever national championship in golf. His second year included an incredible run on the gridiron to end the season, as Tommy Bowden's Tigers defeated #3 Florida State in November and #6 Tennessee in the Peach Bowl. The women's tennis team was one of three programs to win ACC Championships in the same weekend and advanced to the Final Four of the NCAA Tournament, the first women's athletic team in Clemson history to reach the Final Four in any postseason tournament. Nancy Harris' team duplicated the accomplishment in 2004-05.

In the most recent school year, 15 of Clemson's 19 sports programs advanced to postseason play. The list included six which were chosen for NCAA Tournament competition (baseball, golf, rowing, women's soccer, men's tennis, women's tennis). The Tiger sports program had 62 All-ACC selections, 14 All-America selections, and seven student-athletes who were named at least academic all-region.

In terms of personnel, Phillips made national news when he hired Oliver Purnell as Clemson's head basketball coach in 2003. Purnell has had a history of rejuvenating basketball programs, and it appears he is continuing that trend at Clemson. He led the Tigers to postseason play in 2004-05, their first postseason appearance in six years.

Phillips also enhanced his department's diversity by naming former NCAA Administrator Phil Grayson and former Clemson All-America football player Jeff Davis to athletic director positions. He also promoted Barbara Kennedy-Dixon, one of the greatest ACC women's basketball players in history, to the associate athletic director/senior women's administrator position when Linda White retired in 2005.

Clemson has also continued to raise standards when it comes to the school's overall mission of academics. In the spring of 2005, a record 245 student-athletes were named to the Academic Honor Roll, including a record 121 who were named to the President's List. Additionally, a record-tying eight athletic programs had over a 3.0 semester GPA.

Excellence in academics has been a constant on his resumé. He has an undergraduate degree from Arkansas (1970), a master's from Virginia Tech (1974), a doctorate from Virginia Tech (1978), and a law degree from the Arkansas School of Law (1996). He is a member of the Arkansas Bar, American Bar Association, and the Sports Lawyers Association.

From an experience standpoint, Phillips has worked in nearly all phases of college athletics. He coached on the football staff at Virginia Tech, supervised spring sports and student-athlete enrichment at Florida, handled athletic fundraising and facility enhancement at Missouri and Arkansas, and had 15 years experience as an athletic director, including 13 at the Division I level, prior to his appointment at Clemson, coming from Oklahoma State.

Football was transformed from a perennial losing status, defeating Oklahoma during five of the eight years he was associated with Oklahoma State. For this, he received the National Football Foundation Oklahoma Chapter Outstanding Contribution to Amateur Football Award in 2002.

When it came to success on the field and in the classroom, OSU's programs were among the best in the Big 12. The achievements of the Cowboy program during his tenure (1994-02) included a pair of national titles in men's golf, a men's basketball Final Four, two trips to the College World Series, 13 Big 12 titles, and 11 individual national champions. It had 53 academic All-Americans as well.

Before leading Oklahoma State, Phillips served as senior associate athletic director at Arkansas from 1988-94. He ran the daily operations and had oversight of facility projects for the men's programs, and was president of the Razorback Foundation.

Phillips was athletic director at Liberty (1980-81) and Louisiana-Lafayette (1983-88). He was also an assistant athletic director at Missouri (1981-83), and began his administrative career in 1979 as an assistant athletic director at Florida.

Phillips began his career in college athletics coaching football. He started as a graduate assistant at Arkansas from 1970-71. He moved on to Virginia Tech as an assistant coach from 1971-78 before joining the ranks of athletic administration.

Winning has been on his resumé since his playing days. At Arkansas, he lettered on three Frank Broyles' teams (1966, 68, 69). The Razorbacks were 27-5 in those three years and played in two Sugar Bowl games.

In addition to Phillips' leadership with the NCAA Infractions Appeals Committee, he also works with the NCAA certification program. He currently serves on several ACC Committees: Finance Committee, chair of the Committee on Infractions and Penalties, Television Committee, the Men's Basketball Committee, and the Football Committee.

Phillips has two children, John Dennis (28) and Sarah-Jane (25), and three stepchildren, Meagan (16), Marshall (14), and Madison (12). His wife Tricia is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, and earlier enjoyed a career in athletics and development. She is now active in the Clemson and Seneca communities.

Tommy Bowden

Head Coach

When one looks at Tommy Bowden's resumé, the first thing that comes to mind is consistency. Clemson's head football coach has completed eight seasons as a Division I head coach, and all eight of his teams have been bowl eligible at the conclusion of the regular season.

Bowden has also shown consistency in terms of improvement over the course of seasons. In both 2003 and 2004, his teams have won five of its last six games. The 2003 team won its last four, including wins over top-10 teams Florida State and Tennessee to finish the year in the top 25 of both polls.

There has also been consistency in terms of success against Clemson's in-state rival (South Carolina). The Tigers have won five of the six meetings with the Gamecocks since Bowden became head coach in 1999, and the 83.3-percent winning percentage is the best of any Tiger head coach in history against the Gamecocks given a minimum of five games. He has an average victory margin of 13.7 points per game in the state-rivalry game, all against future Hall of Fame Head Coach Lou Holtz.

Through eight seasons as a Division I head coach, Bowden has a 62-33 record, a 65.3-percent winning percentage that ranks 10th among winningest active coaches. In conference games, he has never had a sub-.500 record, and his overall conference record stands at 39-21 for a 65.0-percent winning percentage.

Through six years at Clemson, he has a 44-29 mark and five bowl appearances. He has 28 ACC wins as well. The only program with more ACC wins during this time is Florida State. The 44 overall victories rank third in Clemson history in total wins. The 29-7 victory over South Carolina in the 2004 season finale was not only the 600th win in Clemson history, it moved Bowden ahead of Hall of Fame Coach Jess Neely into third place on Clemson's coaching victories list. Only Frank Howard and Danny Ford are ahead of Bowden.

Twice Bowden has been named ACC Coach-of-the-Year (1999, 03), joining Howard, Charley Pell, and Ford as the only two-time recipients of that award in Tiger history.

Consistency in his approach is one reason Clemson went from a 1-4 start to bowl eligibility in 2004. It marked the first time since 1963 that a Tiger team had overcome such a deficit to finish with a winning season.

Clemson played a complete game at #10 Miami (FL) on November 6, 2004 and defeated the Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl by a score of 24-17 in overtime. It was the second overtime win of the season for the Tigers, who are 4-0 in extra-session games under Bowden and an NCAA record 5-0 for the history of the program.

The win over Miami gave Bowden and the Tigers three wins over top-10 programs in the last 13 games, something that had been done at Clemson just once previously (1981 National Championship team). All three of those programs (Florida State, Tennessee, Miami) have won the national championship within the last seven seasons.

Over the last two seasons, Bowden has won five games over coaches who have won the national title (Bobby Bowden, Phillip Fulmer, Larry Coker, Holtz (twice)). These big wins have stimulated interest in the program. The Tigers averaged nearly 79,000 fans per home game in 2004, the sixth-highest average in Clemson history. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in home football attendance each of the six seasons Bowden has been at Clemson.

With Clemson's selection to the 2003 Peach Bowl, Bowden became the first head coach in Clemson and ACC history to take a team to a bowl game in each of his first five seasons. In fact, no coach had ever done so more than twice to open his career at Clemson. That is also something that prominent Tiger predecessors Neely, Howard, Pell, Ford, and Ken Hatfield failed to do. Under Bowden's direction, Clemson had also appeared in the Peach Bowl in 1999, the Gator Bowl in 2000, the 2001 Humanitarian Bowl, and the 2002 Tangerine Bowl prior to its 2004 Peach Bowl invitation.

The 2004 Peach Bowl appearance meant that it was the first time since the senior class of 1991 that Clemson went to a bowl game five straight years. Clemson's red-shirt seniors of 2003 were the first group he recruited, so it is an indication of the firm foundation his first group set. In December of 2003, Bowden cemented his place at Clemson by signing a seven-year contract, which will go through 2010.

The 2003 season was a breakthrough year in many ways. Clemson earned its highest-ever win over a ranked team with a 26-10 victory over #3 Florida State. The Tigers also defeated #24 Virginia in a thrilling overtime game. The 39-3 win over a bowl-bound Georgia Tech team was Clemson's largest victory margin in the series since 1900 as well.

The victory over Florida State, Clemson's first in 12 tries since the Seminoles joined the ACC, was the beginning of a four-game winning streak to close the season. In those four games, Clemson outscored its opponents 156-48, an average score of 39-12. Clemson defeated arch-rival South Carolina in Columbia by a score of 63-17. It was the most points ever scored by a team in the 101-game series and the Tigers' largest victory margin in the series since 1900. It was also Bowden's fourth win in five tries against the Gamecocks.

The season concluded with a 27-14 win over #6 Tennessee, the highest-ranked team Clemson has defeated in a bowl game since 1981, when the Tigers defeated #4 Nebraska in the Orange Bowl to claim the national championship. As a result, Clemson finished the season with nine wins and a #22 final national ranking.

Off the field, Clemson has graduated nearly 75 percent of its scholarship seniors in his six years. In 2003, Clemson ranked #11 in the nation, including second among public institutions, in the NCAA graduation-rate study for scholarship football signees who entered Clemson in 1996. Clemson was first in the nation in graduation rate among African-Americans (100 percent). Nine of Clemson's current seniors are slated to graduate in December. Charlie Whitehurst already has his undergraduate degree.

The 2002 season included victories over bowl teams Georgia Tech and Wake Forest, and a third victory in four years over arch-rival South Carolina. Clemson gained 434 yards of total offense in the 27-20 win over the Gamecocks, the most yards against Lou Holtz's defense all season.

The 2001 season demonstrated Bowden's ability to win in the long run, as he had the second-youngest "two-deep" in the ACC. Thirty-four of his top 44 players were underclassmen. Only Duke had a younger group of top 44 players. Fourteen different freshmen saw action in 2001, including 10 who played in at least 10 games.

Bowden has a record of 44-29 (.603) as Clemson's head coach and is 62-33 (.653) overall. He ranks 10th among active Division I coaches on a winning-percentage basis. He has recorded that ledger against a difficult schedule. His first year, Clemson's schedule was ranked in the top 10 in the nation. In 2001, his team defeated five teams that finished the season with a winning record, tied for the third-highest single-season figure in school history. One of the wins was a 47-44 overtime triumph at #9 Georgia Tech. It was the highest-ranked road win in 20 years for the program. In 2003 and 2004,

Tommy Bowden

Head Coach

Clemson's schedule strength once again ranked in the top 25 by the Sagarin rating.

When Bowden came to Clemson in 1998, he inherited a team with a 3-8 record. By late October of 2000, just 14 months after his first game, Clemson was ranked #3 in the nation in the USA Today poll after an 8-0 start. That ranking was the highest for the program in 16 years. The final #14 ranking in that same poll was the highest final listing for the program since the 1990 season.

Bowden's 2000 Clemson team was one of the most decorated in history. Six different Tigers were finalists or semifinalist for national position awards, including linebacker Keith Adams, who was one of the final three finalists for the Butkus Award.

Chad Carson and Kyle Young were both named first-team Academic All-Americans, making Clemson the only Division I-A school in the nation to have a pair of first-team selections. For the second straight year, the football team had its highest team GPA on record in 2001 and a record number of ACC Academic Honor Roll recipients. Nineteen of the 22 seniors on the 2001 team earned their degrees.

The top-six semester GPAs on record have taken place under his 12-semester watch. Carson brought pride to the entire University in 2002 when he reached the final stage of the Rhodes Scholarship selection process, the only Division I football player to hold that distinction.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. He became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach-of-the-Year.

Ryan, Lauren, Linda, and Tommy along with dog Lucy

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation's seventh-toughest schedule according to the Sagarin rating. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final ACC standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson led the ACC in that category for the second-straight year, and the final total established a school record. Three players (Adams - 15.5, Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top-four tacklers in the league. Clemson also led the ACC in sacks in 2004.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program was nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team's fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark, and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight games in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game, the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays. The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden's team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979, and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated Brigham Young in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

A look to the list of coaches who had undefeated seasons in the 1990s shows two other men named Bowden. His father, Florida State's Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother, Terry, posted a perfect regular season in 1993. Obviously, the Bowdens are the first family of college coaching and this "Wonder Years" environment had a lot to do with Tommy's decision to enter coaching.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-75 and then for Frank Cignetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior, he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia in 1977 and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Cignetti's staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a graduate assistant. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State in 1978.

In early 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the spring-practice session. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers' running backs coach in 1980.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In two more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 15-8 mark. The 1982 team ranked #13 in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record, and won a Gator Bowl championship.

From 1983-86, Bowden served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the quarterbacks coach. He was named coordinator in 1985. It was as a Duke assistant that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players Bowden tutored was Anthony Dilweg, who went on to the NFL.

After four years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was there that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Tide offensive coordinator.

In 1990, he returned to a coordinator role, serving Kentucky as its offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That year, he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He remained with Auburn for six seasons, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn had a combined record of 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four AP top-25 seasons, including a #4 final ranking in 1993 and a #9 final ranking in 1994.

Born on July 10, 1954 in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown (WV) High. The couple has two children, Ryan (23), a 2004 Clemson graduate and currently a law student at Regent University, and Lauren (20), a junior at Clemson.

ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER

ATLANTIC DIVISION

Dear ACC Football Fans,

This is an exciting time to be a part of the Atlantic Coast Conference! With the addition of Boston College on July 1, 2005, the ACC will compete with 12 of the finest academic and athletic institutions in the country.

As we begin this new chapter of Atlantic Coast Conference competition, I hope you not only enjoy the excitement as you cheer on your respective school, but that you will also take advantage of the many exciting destinations that are available in the newly expanded ACC footprint. From the historic Boston Harbor to the beaches of Miami – each of the 12 ACC campuses and surrounding areas have many great attractions to offer.

ACC Football will also take on a new look this year as each conference team will compete in either the Atlantic or Coastal division.

At the conclusion of conference competition, the winner of each division will square-off in the inaugural Dr Pepper ACC Football Championship Game on Saturday, December 3. This historic event is set to kick off at 8:00 p.m. in Jacksonville, Fla., and will be aired nationally on ABC. We hope that all ACC fans will make plans to share in this memorable experience.

The ACC, and its 12 member institutions, has a tradition of tremendous academic and athletic balance. As a conference, we are extremely excited to once again turn the attention to what has made this league so strong throughout its history – our student-athletes, coaches and fans.

We sincerely hope that all the dedicated followers of the ACC will continue to bring meaning to the ACC's promise - A Tradition of Excellence ... Then, Now and Always.

Sincerely,

John D. Swofford
Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans in 1999. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in the nation in attendance 22 straight seasons. In 2004, the streak continued when Clemson averaged nearly 79,000 fans per game.

The facility's mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 227 games in 63 years there and has won over 71 percent of the contests (227-88-7). Thirty-nine times since 1983, a crowd has exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before Head Coach Jess Neely left for Rice after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message.

"Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the YMCA. That's all you'll ever need".

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing-there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work, clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally on September 19, 1942, Memorial Stadium opened with Clemson thrashing Presbyterian by a score of 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, the boy was swollen twice his size and was hospitalized.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through."

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and in 1960, 5,658 west endzone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large endzone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of as crowds swelled - the first in 1978 and the second in '83. This increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the largest on-campus stadiums.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

In 1974, the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Running Down The Hill

"The Most Exciting 25 Seconds in College Football"

What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint," actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity.

The first 20,000 seats in Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season, less than a year after Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was drawn into World War II.

The shortest entry into the stadium was a short walk down Williamson Road from Fike Fieldhouse's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the Hill, which is located behind the east endzone. There were no dressing facilities in the west endzone - there was only a big clock where the hands turned and a scoreboard, which was operated by hand.

The team would dress at Fike, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the big scoreboard now stands and jog down the Hill for its warm-up exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no Tiger Paw flag, no Tiger Rag played...just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side-straddle hop.

That's pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S.C. Jones, a member of the class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA and picked up this white flint rock. He presented it to Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, CA to Death Valley, South Carolina."

The rock laid on the floor in Howard's office in Fike Fieldhouse for years. One day, he was cleaning up his office and he told Gene Willimon, who was executive secretary of IPTAY, to "take this rock and throw it over the fence, or out in the ditch...do something with it, but get it out of my office!"

Willimon didn't think that was the way a rock should be treated. After all, it had been brought 3,000 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-1960s, Memorial Stadium was pretty well living up to its moniker, Death Valley, because of the number of victories that had been recorded there. Actually, the name was first used by the late Lonnie McMillian, head coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton in the 1940s.

McMillian and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open the season each year by coming to Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shutouts in 39 games) and with only three wins and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting killed by the Tigers regularly. In 1948, McMillian made the comment to the press that he was taking his team to play Clemson in Death Valley.

An occasional reference to Memorial stadium by that name could be heard for the next three or four years, but when Howard started calling it "Death Valley" in the 1950s, the name took off like wildfire. The Tigers celebrated the 50th season in the "Valley in 1991.

Running Down The Hill

"The Most Exciting 25 Seconds in College Football"

But getting back to Howard's Rock.

The rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the Hill. It was unveiled September 24, 1966, on a day when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes to play and came back to win (40-35) on a 65-yard pass play from Jimmy Addison to Jack Jackson in the fourth period. That was quite a spectacular debut for that rock.

The team members started rubbing the rock prior to running down the Hill September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson defeated Wake Forest, 23-6. Prior to running down the Hill that day, Howard told his players: "If you're going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that rock. If you're not, keep your filthy hands off it." Howard told of the incident the next day on his Sunday television show and the story became legend.

When Hootie Ingram succeeded Howard as head coach prior to the 1970 season, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west endzone. In all home games in 1970 and 1971 and the first four games of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the Hill, their combined record was 6-9. The team decided it wanted to come down the Hill once prior to the South Carolina game in 1972. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt which preserved the win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above - 307 times heading into the 2005 season.

After final warmups, the team goes back into its dressing room under the west endzone stands for final game instructions. About 10 minutes before kickoff, the team boards two buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east endzone, and debarks to the top of the Hill behind Howard's Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms and led by a high-flying Tiger Paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up "Tiger Rag"...the frenzy starts in all sincerity and usually lasts for three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.

"The Rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the Hill, the adrenaline flows. It's the most emotional experience I've ever had."

Thomas Hunter

Senior Spotlight

By Sanford Rogers

Pee Dee Academy sits between Marion and Mullins, SC just off Highway 76. Most passersby, a large number of which are on the way to or from Myrtle Beach, may not even take a quick glance as their car speeds while driving down the road.

But if any visitor were to stop at the small school, with a total enrollment of 492 (Kindergarten through 12th grade), they just might notice a picture that would surprise them. There on the wall, just outside of the administrative offices, is a framed picture of current Clemson tight end Thomas Hunter with Head Coach Tommy Bowden.

Hunter, in his third year suiting up for the Tigers, has shown that hard work and determination can lead an athlete from any sized school, in this case very small, to great accomplishments.

Hunter, who lettered in both his sophomore and senior years on the gridiron at Pee Dee Academy, initially thought that basketball would be his sport of choice in college. He fielded recruiting inquiries from Wofford and The Citadel, but wanted to pursue a dream of playing for the team he has followed his entire life.

"I have come to games here since I was two weeks old," said Hunter. "I had come to Clemson every year when I was growing up. It had always been a dream of mine to wear that Clemson jersey and run down the Hill. To have been able to do that means a lot."

During his 10th-grade year, the Golden Eagle squad played eight-man football, designed to give schools with small enrollments the opportunity to enjoy football as the larger schools do. It was that 10th-grade season that Hunter faced future Clemson teammate Gaines Adams, who prepped at Cambridge Academy in Greenwood, SC.

"We did not have a lot of players, but everybody on that team worked hard and had fun," said Hunter. "Gaines (Adams) and I still give each other a hard time about us playing. We beat them in the regular season, but they got us in the playoffs."

Before Hunter ever saw Death Valley from the sideline, he had to endure a stint as a walk-on, not the most glamorous of positions on a Division I football team. Clemson Assistant Head Coach Brad Scott remembers his first meeting with Hunter and the words of advice he gave the Marion, SC native.

"I told Thomas that being a walk-on football player is very hard," stated Scott. "That first year, no one knows your name and no one cares. But I told him if he would work hard in the weight room, on the field, and in the classroom, he could have a chance to help us. He has certainly done that. I could not be more proud of Thomas Hunter."

Hunter still vividly remembers that conversation with Coach Scott. And he is quick to say that the Tiger assistant was true to his word. "That first year was horrible," said Hunter. "I did not know anyone on the team and was getting killed during practice."

"During one of the first practices, I was just pounded by (former Tiger linebacker) Eric Sampson. It was one of those hits where it just about turned my helmet around. But I did remember what Coach Scott told me about not quitting and working hard. I kept doing that every day and things worked out just like he said they would."

Bowden can appreciate what he has experienced. Bowden himself was a walk-on for his father Bobby at West Virginia and understands the time and effort involved.

"You can't fully appreciate what a walk-on goes through unless you have experienced it for yourself," said Bowden.

"He did all the things we asked of him, both on the field and in the classroom. I'm very proud of what he has accomplished."

During Hunter's first year as a walk-on, he set goals that he reached and surpassed. He has not only run down the Hill in the most exciting 25 seconds in college football, he has earned playing time first on special teams, and then at tight end.

"It has been a work in progress," said Hunter. "My first goal was to run down the Hill. My second goal was to make the traveling squad. Then I wanted to find a way on the field, somehow. In 2003, I played on special teams and got in a few plays at Georgia Tech."

The 2004 season, a year where he earned a scholarship for the Tigers, was one that saw Hunter play on special teams. He also played a big role in Clemson's thrilling overtime win at Miami (FL). Hunter registered playing time at the tight end position for 10 plays and was on the field for all three of Reggie Merriweather's rushing scores against the #1 Hurricanes, including the game-winner in overtime when he threw a key block.

"It felt great to be out there on the field against Miami," said a smiling Hunter. "What really made it special was to be a part of a win for Clemson in such a special place. I was not born until 1984, but every Clemson fan knows about 1981 and the victory over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. That is what really made it something to remember."

Lon Spivey, who coach Hunter at Pee Dee Academy, was more than pleased to see his former player making such a contribution on such a big stage. "When Thomas told me he was going to walk-on at Clemson, I was a little surprised. To make that step up in talent from a small school to Division I football is quite an accomplishment. But it is a real credit to his hard work. When you see how much time and effort he has invested, it makes me very proud."

The hard work and dedication displayed by Hunter is the reason his picture with Coach Bowden is hung in such a visible spot at the school.

"I want our kids to understand what hard work and dedication can lead to," said Spivey. "Thomas Hunter is an example of that."

With the 2005 season underway, Hunter now has goals of making even greater contributions. The Clemson offense, under the leadership of Offensive Coordinator Rob Spence, has made the tight end position a priority.

"We have a lot of tight ends capable of making some big plays for the team," said Hunter. "The new offense that Coach Spence has brought in really highlights the position. I'm excited about the opportunities that are out there."

Clemson Tight End Coach Jack Hines would not be surprised to see Hunter play a positive role in 2005. "I would take a team full of Thomas Hunters," said Hines. "He has a chance to make some plays for us on offense. We have a lot of confidence in him."

Hunter has also made a mark at Clemson away from the field. The biological science major now has medical school in his sights not too far down the road. He is in fact following in the footsteps of former Clemson tight end Ed Glenn, who was a walk-on academic All-American in 1994 who went on to medical school at Vanderbilt.

"I'm doing everything I can in the classroom to be ready for medical school," said Hunter. "I hope to enroll at MUSC in Charleston after finishing at Clemson. My sister Ann is a freshman basketball player at College of Charleston. I'm looking forward to being able to see her play while I'm in school there."

After the hard work and determination Thomas Hunter has displayed at Clemson, it will be no surprise to see M.D. at the end of his name in the next few years. He has shown time and time again what hard work and determination can lead to.

Clemson University

Clemson University is home to big ideas — ideas that fuel the economy, improve health and safety, and educate students for life.

Big Ideas

Teaching America's best scholars in a unique learning environment

Clemson students are among the nation's best. Their SAT scores, freshman retention rates and graduation rates rank among the top public research universities. Clemson students think critically through individual research, collaborative work, laptop innovations, cutting-edge laboratories, studios and other hands-on challenges. Students gain lifelong communication skills through the Pearce Center for Professional Communication and the new Class of 1941 Studio for Student Communication. Clemson's Rutland Center for Ethics helps students manage ethical issues now and in the future.

Meeting today's business needs with a century of know-how

Clemson's International Center for Automotive Research (Clemson-ICAR®) in Greenville positions South Carolina to become a hub of the nation's automotive and motorsports industry. Its Center for Optical Materials Science and Engineering Technologies' spinoff companies have already generated more than $3 million. Clemson's advanced materials research has a new state-of-the-art facility at the Clemson Research Park in Anderson County, making the Upstate a magnet for related industries. Its Biosystems Research Complex serves as a focal point of biotechnology research, the promising field to create new products and processes in medicine, agriculture and industry.

Solving life-threatening situations with life-altering research

Clemson attracted more than $125 million in externally funded research and sponsored program awards last year. Its scientists are working to stop breast cancer, heal ailing hearts, reverse bone loss, decrease diabetes and address a host of other health issues. Clemson engineers are working to make safer and "smarter" vehicles through automotive and transportation technology. Researchers are aiding soldiers on the battlefield, revolutionizing wireless communication and advancing security.

Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics offers nationally prominent athletic programs. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, a competitive athletic program, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches, and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to Clemson University.

The mission of the Athletic Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow, develop, and serve the interests of Clemson University by complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life.

Furthermore, the Athletic Department seeks to be a source of pride for the citizens of the State of South Carolina and to be recognized as a nationally prominent program, through consistently high levels of performance and accomplishment in athletic competitions.

The Athletic Department strives to develop student-athletes academically and athletically with the total commitment of aiding their efforts to graduate from Clemson University and advance to careers that will enable them to be productive members of society.

The Athletic Department will act in an ethical and honest manner, dedicated to compliance with all Federal, State, NCAA, Conference, and University rules and regulations.

TEAMING UP TO MEET YOUR GOALS

For over one hundred years, The National Bank of South Carolina has championed teamwork. All of our team members work together to make your financial dreams a reality. It's just one of the many ways we're honoring our past by helping you invest in your future.

The Clemson Tiger Sports Network supplies Tiger fans with a full day of broadcast each football Saturday. Each broadcast day has three programs, "Tiger Tailgate Show," "Game Day Broadcast," and the "Fifth Quarter Show."

A tradition since the 1970s, the "Tiger Tailgate Show" is a two-hour entertainment and interactive program. It is produced on the lawn of Littlejohn Coliseum (at the corner) closest to Death Valley.

The program begins three hours prior to kick-off. Bubba Britton, Duane Evans, Don Munson, and Whitney Walters play host to the show. It is the gathering place on gameday. Interviews with former Clemson players, games, display items, and pregame excitement are all part of the program.

The game broadcast is anchored by Pete Yanity. The sports director at WSPA-TV in Spartanburg, SC took over in September, 2003 after the passing of the legendary Jim Phillips, who had been the longtime voice of the Tigers since 1968. Yanity has been a part of the broadcast team since 2001 as the host of the pregame, halftime, and postgame shows, and as the sideline reporter during games.

Yanity has been the sports director at WSPA-TV in Spartanburg the last 15 years. He has also been a sideline analyst for nine years on Carolina Panther preseason football games and has considerable play-by-play experience for Comcast Sports Southeast, covering various college events, including Tiger football and baseball. Yanity is also the voice of Tiger basketball and the host of the Tommy Bowden and Oliver Purnell Television Shows.

Joining Yanity in the booth is former Clemson offensive lineman Will Merritt, who played for the Tigers from 1998-01. He was a starter in both 2000 and 2001 when he was named Second-Team All-ACC.

Merritt worked on the Clemson radio network pregame and postgame shows in 2002. He also provided color commentary on the television tape-delay broadcasts of selected 2002 games. In 2003, he became the color analyst of the gameday broadcasts. The native of Easley, SC is the host of "The Morning Drive," a sports talk show that airs each morning on WCCP (104.9 FM) in Clemson.

Former Clemson Academic All-American linebacker Chad Carson completes the broadcast team as the sideline commentator. Carson served in that capacity for the final two games of 2003 and all of 2004. Carson is fourth in Clemson history in career tackles and was a starter on Tommy Bowden's first three Tiger teams.

As has been the case in the past, the gameday broadcast begins with the Tommy Bowden Pregame Show. Bowden meets with Sports Information Director Tim Bourret to provide fans with the latest game lineup and strategy information. Yanity and Merritt also provide a last-minute scene-setter that includes the latest lineup and weather information.

After the game, fans can tune into the "Fifth Quarter Show," hosted by Ralph Patterson and Munson, or attend the show live from the Wild Wing Cafe in downtown Greenville, SC. Interviews with Coach Bowden and Assistant Coaches Rob Spence and Vic Koenning are also included. An added feature includes lockerroom interviews with Clemson's top players that day. A rundown of the game stats and audio highlights are provided.

Fans can follow the Tigers by listening to "Tiger Calls" each Thursday evening with Bowden and Don Munson from 7:00 PM to 8:00 PM. The shows will air live from Chick-fil-A in Seneca, SC or one of four local Tri-County Ace stores.

The Clemson Tiger Sports Network also produces the Tommy Bowden Television Show, a re-

This brief NCAA rules education is aimed at outlining basic recruiting rules to help potential Tiger students-athletes and parents better understand the extensive process. Clemson University is committed to recruiting and conducting our athletic program with the highest level of integrity. If you have questions about NCAA rules, please contact Clemson's compliance services at (864) 656-1580 or through our website at ClemsonTigers.com and click on compliance. You can also visit the NCAA's website at NCAA.org.

Dead Period - Recruiting period when coaches may not have face-to-face contact with prospects on or off Clemson's campus. Coaches may continue to telephone and write a prospect.

Evaluation - In April and May of a prospect's junior year, coaches will come to a prospect's high school, and review his athletic and academic credentials with his coach. In the fall, they may watch a prospect compete one time, but they will not have any contact.

Home Visit - During the contact period, a senior prospect may invite college coaches to his home to meet his parents, and to talk in detail about the football program and academic offerings at any college the prospect is considering.

Receiving Mail - When a prospect is in the ninth and 10th grades, NCAA rules allow Clemson to mail a questionnaire, NCAA educational information, and a summer-camp brochure to a prospect. After September 1 of the prospect's junior year, coaches can provide a prospect with the following: write personalized letters, send a media guide and copies of newspaper articles, and a schedule card. A prospect can receive a football game program when he visits the Clemson University campus.

Recruiting - A term used to describe the process of acquainting a prospect with a college and the coaches of that college, who are striving to learn more about a prospect. Only coaches can recruit - no one else is permitted to persuade a prospect to play sports at a particular college.

Prospect - Any student who has entered the ninth grade. Once a person becomes a prospect, NCAA rules define how college coaches can interact with that prospect.

Telephone - Clemson football coaches can call a prospect once in May of the prospect's junior year. After September 1 of a prospect's senior year, a coach can call a prospect once a week. A prospect can expect unlimited calls during the contact period, before his official visit and once the prospect has signed a National Letter of Intent.

Frequently Asked Questions

Are a prospect's parents invited for an official visit? Yes. NCAA rules allow a school to provide lodging and meals for parents or legal guardians who accompany their child. However, NCAA rules do not allow schools to provide transportation for parents unless they drive with their son.

Can a prospect visit Clemson anytime during his high school career? Yes. A prospect can have his high school coach call Tiger coaches to set up an unofficial visit. He can attend a football game and talk with Tiger coaches, and it does not count as a contact when it is on Clemson's campus. There are times a prospect cannot visit - NCAA rules refer to them as "dead periods," and coaches will not schedule to meet with a prospect during that time period.

Can IPTAY members help recruit me? No. NCAA rules are clear; only Clemson coaches can telephone, contact, and evaluate a prospect. Only college coaches can offer unofficial/official visits.

Is the prospect's high school coach invited for an official visit? NCAA rules are such that high school coaches may not be provided any expenses for official visits.

What is a National Letter of Intent (NLI)? It is a contract; a prospect and his parents sign a promise that the prospect will attend a particular college. In return, that college promises a prospect financial aid. A prospect signs it during his senior year (in February for football). Once the prospect signs it, he cannot be recruited by any other school, and it is a binding contract for the prospect's first year in college at the school that provides the national letter of intent.

What is IPTAY? IPTAY is an organization of Clemson fans. It has over 23,000 members. It generates financial support for the athletic department, and it is the best in the country!

What is an official visit? A prospect can take five official visits, which are expense-paid. Before the visit, the prospect must present a high school transcript and proof of an SAT, ACT, PACT, or PSAT test. Official visit invitations are extended by Tiger coaches only. Official visits may not occur prior to the first day of class of the prospect's senior year in high school.

What is the NCAA Clearinghouse? It is the agency that certifies a prospect's eligibility for NCAA Division I and Division II. A prospect should register with the NCAA Clearinghouse at the end of his junior year in high school. Applications are available in the prospect's guidance office. Cost is $32.

Tiger Strength Training

One of the most important facilities on the Clemson athletic landscape is the strength training facility. Located in the Jervy Athletic Center, it has continued to keep up with one of the most progressive areas in college sports. Head Strength Training Coach Joey Batson, who is in his ninth year as the director, makes sure Clemson student-athletes in all sports are ready for competition physically.

In the summer of 2004, he oversaw a third major facility enhancement. When he came to Clemson, the facility covered 11,000 square feet. It has continued to grow and now covers nearly 15,000 square feet. It is one of the most modern all-around facilities in the country.

The following improvements were made:

- State-of-the-art sound system
- Eight flat-screen plasma televisions
- State-of-the-art ventilation system
- New lighting system
- 10 new multi-functional Clemson power racks
- Mondo-rubber flooring throughout entire weight room
- New orange upholstery on all weightlifting equipment
- New paint on surrounding walls and columns
- Carpeting in entrances and offices
- Front entrance drop ceiling
- Metal overlay for awards displays
- Reconstruction of entryway walls

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place within the facility. When a Tiger student-athlete enters the etched-glass doors, he is greeted by nearly $700,000 worth state-of-the-art equipment.

The eight plasma televisions are positioned throughout the facility and are used for training and instruction, as strength coaches film athletes and work with them on their form.

Clemson has a staff of five full-time strength coaches along with four graduate assistant coaches, and numerous student assistant coaches who ensure a Tiger football player receives as much individual attention as possible. Training programs are position specific, and are designed to meet the specific needs of each student-athlete.

Batson is one of the most highly-regarded strength coaches in the country. In his nine years directing the program, he has coached 11 strength

Locker Room & Player Lounge

When Clemson's football players returned to campus for the second session of summer school of 2004, they reported to a new football locker room and player lounge area within the Jervey Athletic Center. The 4,200-square-foot facility has all the modern conveniences, including a player lounge that includes seven plasma televisions and four computer work stations. The lounge also features murals that document Clemson's greatest players, greatest victories, and prominent former players who have gone on to the NFL.

The following is a rundown of the some of the features of Clemson's new lounge and locker room area:

- The locker room area is divided into eight sections, with the lockers corresponding to each player's uniform number. There are 115 lockers in all. Each section of the locker room is highlighted by a logo and picture of historical significance from a bowl game Clemson has played in. Each section also features large interchangeable action photos of recent Clemson players.
- Each player has a new mahogany locker that features a helmet storage area and a storage compartment below a padded seat. There is also a private lock box for personal items.

- Each locker features a large Tiger Paw that introduces the helmet storage area and a personalized name plate.
- The lounge area features seven plasma televisions, complete with split-screen capabilities. All are tied to a central video hub. The television area also contains an Academic Hall of Fame, complete with photographs and accomplishments of Clemson's academic All-Americans and award winners.
- The lounge also features four computer work stations to enhance communications capabilities with professors or advisors at Vickery Hall.
- One wall of the lounge contains a complete list (by team) of every former Tiger who has played in an NFL game. Another wall is a mural of Clemson's All-Century team (chosen in 1996 in conjunction with the 100th year of Clemson football).
- The entrance is dominated by a 30'x9' picture of Death Valley taken at night from Howard's Rock.
- The locker room and lounge areas also feature pictures from Clemson's 13 ACC Championship teams and the 1981 National Championship team.
- The back of the locker room, which has a new exit to the practice field, features a picture of Clemson players running down the Hill and rubbing Howard's Rock. It is the last image seen by each Clemson player as he heads to the practice field.

Student-Athlete Enrichment Program

Vickery Hall

Since its inception in 1991, the five-faceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success not only in the athletic arena, but in the academic, personal growth, career, and community service arenas as well. We provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes during college and after graduation.

Vickery Hall is a $3-million structure that is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other Clemson facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson athletic department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in 1991 and was the first facility in the country constructed solely for the all-around academic support of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open all day and into the evening hours to accommodate student-athletes' extended schedules. It is a vital reason that the number of student-athletes on the ACC and Clemson Academic Honor Roll has shown continuous improvement since its opening.

Vickery Hall Values

We believe that you can win ACC and National Championships with men and women who strive for academic and athletic excellence, and who share values of honesty, open communication, fairness, balance in the personal life, integrity, life-long learning, accountability, and commitment.

Vickery Hall Staff Members:

- are honest in their dealings with athletes, coaches, parents and administrators.
- are technically sound in their approach to advising.
- are committed to developing expertise that is recognized nationally.
- are committed to helping each other meet the challenges of motivating student-athletes toward their best academic efforts.
- are known for treating athletes consistently and with concern for their future.
- are chosen for Clemson and demonstrate a commitment to decision-making that is in the best interest of Clemson.
- are committed to retention, graduation, and life-long connection for student-athletes.

Our Student-Athletes:

- are able to communicate with peers and with adults.
- are exposed to the best in academic support.
- understand that they are expected to perform at their highest level in the classroom and on the playing field.
- understand that they are obligated to follow rules, train for championships, and graduate.
- realize that in exchange for their participation in athletics, they receive a college education, a network of support, and life-long relationships.

2006 Clemson Opponents

Clemson will play road games in major markets Boston and Philadelphia in addition to having ACC road trips to Florida State, Virginia Tech, and Wake Forest according to the list of opponents the Tigers will play in 2006.

Clemson only announced the list of opponents and game sites it will play in the 2006 season. The dates of all games will be determined and released in January of 2006.

Clemson and the other 118 Division I teams will play 12 regular-season games in 2006. The Tigers non-conference foes include South Carolina, Louisiana Tech, Temple, and Florida Atlantic. All but the Temple game will be played in Clemson Memorial Stadium.

The Tigers will play ACC home games against Georgia Tech, Maryland, N.C. State, and North Carolina in 2006, while league road games will be at Boston College, Florida State, Virginia Tech, and Wake Forest.

Florida Atlantic, who finished with a 9-3 record under Howard Schnellenberger in 2004, will come to Clemson for the first time ever. Schnellenberger coached Miami (FL) to the 1983 National Championship. Louisiana Tech will travel to Clemson for the second time. Clemson has a 2-0 lifetime record against Louisiana Tech, a 49-24 victory in the Humanitarian Bowl to close the 2001 season, then a 33-13 win at Clemson in the second game of the 2002 season.

Clemson and Temple begin a three-year series in 2005 when the Owls come to Clemson on October 22. The two teams will meet in Philadelphia, PA at Lincoln Financial Field, the home of the Philadelphia Eagles, in 2006.

North Carolina returns to Clemson's schedule for the first time since 2003 when the Tigers won a thrilling 36-28 game in Death Valley. It will be the only game between Clemson and North Carolina between 2004 and 2009.

The Tigers travel to Wake Forest in 2006, the second consecutive year Clemson will play in Winston-Salem, NC. Clemson plays at Wake Forest this year on October 1. When Clemson plays at Boston College in 2006, it will be Clemson's first trip to Boston since the 1983 season, when the Tigers suffered their only loss of the year to a Doug Flutie led Eagle team.

Clemson will not play ACC teams Virginia, Duke, or Miami (FL) in 2006.

Tiger Band

Clemson University Tiger Band Association

The Clemson University Tiger Band Association exists to provide support and to promote the interests of Tiger Band, to provide support for other music activities and programs at Clemson University, and particularly, to provide funds and support of music scholarships and awards.

The CUTBA was founded in 1978 by alumni and friends of Tiger Band. The CUTBA Board of Directors meets regularly, along with the Director of Tiger Band and the Tiger Band Commander, to determine means of accomplishing its objectives and enhancing the Tiger Band experience for the students. The early vision of CUTBA was to make scholarships and awards available for Tiger Band members.

The CUTBA Scholarship and Award Endowment was established through the University Foundation in 1987. Each year, CUTBA allocates a portion of its operating funds to this endowment. These funds and the investment growth have taken the CUTBA Scholarship and Award Endowment to over $170,000. This endowment provides funds for scholarship grants-in-aid and The Tiger Band Leadership Awards (cash awards to Tiger Band staff members and section leaders).

Other than profits from CD sales, CUTBA is funded by contributions from Tiger Band alumni, parents, and friends who care about the growth of music at Clemson University and want to actively participate in its advancement. As Tiger Band reaches for the next level of excellence, it is critical that our fundraising efforts keep pace with other university band programs in order to attract talented high school instrumentalists to Clemson.

If you wish to support Tiger Band in its efforts, please consider joining CUTBA. You can find a link to their internet site at www.Clemson.edu/TigerBand.

Today's Show

For today's halftime performance, Tiger Band will proudly unveil its new contemporary style uniform. The jacket features a mostly purple front with Tiger claw slashes and "Clemson" embroidered across the chest. Musically, Tiger Band will set the field ablaze with a dramatic introduction taken from Igor Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite" and a thrilling new arrangement of Billy Joel's "We Didn't Start the Fire." Tiger Band will continue to bring the heat with Michele Canilo's exciting "On Fire!" Finally, the band will close the show with Allen Vizzutti's sizzling trumpet feature "Fire Dance" and an encore from the Firebird Suite.

You can take home the sounds of Tiger Band by purchasing the group's CD, "We're An American Band." The CD features more than 30 tracks of favorites from previous football seasons. It includes Sock It To 'Em, Tiger Rag, the Clemson Alma Mater, and a special emphasis on patriotic songs. The CD is available at the Tiger Band Office (119

WestZone

The approximately $54 million WestZone initiative is underway, and soon the west end of Clemson Memorial Stadium will be transformed into a unique campus landmark. As the new "front door" to Death Valley, the WestZone will welcome fans, student-athletes, coaches and friends of Clemson University in an unprecedented fashion.

The WestZone Club, featuring excellent premium seating, will eventually cater to approximately 1,000 Clemson fans starting with the 2006 season. Boasting stylish amenities, comfortable seats and upscale cuisine, the WestZone Club combines indoor elegance and outdoor excitement. Private elevators will take patrons to the exclusive club, which includes a buffet dining area, along with lounge areas overlooking the Clemson campus and Lake Hartwell.

The Westzone initiative also will include great benefits to future Clemson Tiger gridders, including new locker rooms, team lounge areas, media interview rooms, training room, weight room, team and position meeting rooms and coaches offices. The overall project also will include the One Clemson Center, which will feature its history and traditions of Clemson University from an athletic, military and education standpoint.

Construction on the project began after the 2004 season and will continue during the 2005 season. Clemson will play its full 2005 home schedule, as the general seating area will be functional by the opener on September 3 with Texas A&M.

Miami Series History

Clemson vs. Miami

By Kyle Tucker

Today is a first in Clemson football history. While Clemson and Miami have faced each other in some memorable contests, including two bowl games, this will be the Hurricanes' first trip to Death Valley.

This will be meeting #7 today, just the second since 1956, but with the Hurricanes now a member of the ACC, the two teams will become more familiar with each other. Since the Tigers play in the Atlantic Division and the Hurricanes play in the Coastal Division, the two teams will not play each other every season. After today's game, Clemson and Miami will not meet again until 2009 in the Orange Bowl, unless the two reach the ACC Championship Game. Here is a look at a series that has featured some exciting finishes for Tiger fans.

Miami 7, Clemson 6 November 2, 1945

Clemson played its first game south of Gainesville, FL and was edged by the Orange Bowl-bound Hurricanes by a score of 7-6. Jim Reynolds scored the lone Tiger touchdown to open the contest, but Clemson missed on the point after attempt. The Hurricanes answered with a score, and connected on the point after. Each defense kept the opponent off the scoreboard for the remaining three quarters.

Clemson 15, Miami 14 January 1, 1951

Clemson appeared in the Orange Bowl for the first time in school history and squeaked out a 15-14 victory over Miami to complete an undefeated season. The Tigers scored first in the second quarter on a one-yard run by Fred Cone, capping a 76-yard drive. A Billy Hair 21-yard pass to Glenn Smith gave the Tigers a 13-0 advantage midway through the third quarter.

The Hurricanes came storming back with two touchdowns in the final minutes of the third quarter to take their first lead of the day by a score of 14-13. With only six minutes remaining, Miami was penalized on back-to-back plays for clipping and had the ball inside its own five-yard line. Frank Smith then took a pitchout from quarterback Jack Hackett, but before Smith could get out of the endzone, Sterling Smith, a second-team defensive guard for Clemson, tripped him up for a safety, and the Tigers led 15-14.

Former IPTAY Executive Director George Bennett called it one of the most exciting plays he had seen in Clemson history. "I was a senior in high school, and that trip to Miami had me wide-eyed. The Clemson team and the Clemson fans were very excited to be there, but most of the media felt that we shouldn't be there. I was with my family sitting right on the goal line, and when Sterling Smith made that tackle, we cheered as wildly as ever. That win helped Clemson football take off, because we had won the Gator Bowl two years before, and now we had won the Orange Bowl."

Miami threatened one final time, but Don Wade intercepted Hackett for the second time in the game to give Clemson a landmark win and cap a 9-0-1 season. To this day, no other Tiger has intercepted two passes in a bowl game.

Miami 14, Clemson 0 January 1, 1952

Clemson and Miami met for the second consecutive year in a bowl game, this time on New Year's Day 1952 in the Gator Bowl. The Hurricanes scored on two early touchdown runs by Harry Mallios to take a 14-0 lead. Clemson outgained Miami that day, but Hurricane defensive back Jim Dooley intercepted four passes to end Clemson drives. The four intercepted passes by Dooley still stands as an NCAA record for interceptions in a bowl game. Neither team scored in the second half, and the Tigers suffered their first bowl loss after yielding only 174 yards of offense and five first downs.

Clemson was almost unable to make this trip to play Miami. The Tigers accepted the Gator Bowl bid against the wishes of the Southern Conference, who had made a rule its members could not go to a bowl game. Clemson and Maryland, which both accepted bowl bids, were given sanctions. The two teams were told they would not be allowed to play any other conference teams in 1952. This resulted in teams leaving the Southern Conference and forming the ACC.

Miami 39, Clemson 7 October 9, 1953

After a scoreless first half, Miami erupted in the second half to defeat Clemson in Miami. A Tommy Williams 26-yard pass to Scott Jackson got the Tigers on the board in the fourth quarter, but the Hurricanes scored 26 points of their own in the final quarter to seal the win.

Miami 21, Clemson 0 November 16, 1956

Clemson made the trip to Miami with a 5-0-2 record and a #13 national ranking. The Hurricanes were also undefeated with a 5-0-1 record and were ranked #8 entering the contest. A crowd of 47,603 watched the Hurricanes defeat the Tigers 21-0, as Clemson could not produce any offense against a

Jad Dean's six-yard run on a fake field goal stunned the Hurricanes and helped propel the Tigers to a 24-17 upset victory in overtime at #10 Miami last season.

The Tigers rebounded from the Miami loss to earn wins over Virginia and Furman to close out the season. Clemson won the ACC Championship in 1956 and later returned to Miami that season to play Colorado in the Orange Bowl. The Tigers finished the season ranked #19, and the Hurricanes finished with a #6 ranking.

Clemson 24, Miami 17 (OT) November 6, 2004

Clemson trailed Miami 10-0 after nine minutes, but then scored 24 of the game's final 31 points to defeat the #10 Hurricanes in overtime at the Orange Bowl. Reggie Merriweather ran for 114 yards and three touchdowns, as the Tigers recorded their third win over a top-10 team in a span of 13 games. Clemson also improved to 5-0 all-time in overtime games.

Trailing 17-3 at the half, Clemson moved 76 yards in seven plays and scored on a Merriweather 27-yard run to cut the Hurricane lead to 17-10. Early in the fourth quarter, Jad Dean took a pitch from holder Cole Chason on a fake field goal and ran six yards for a first down at the Miami two-yard line. It was the first time a Clemson placekicker had gained rushing yardage since Nelson Welch in 1992. On the next play, Merriweather scored his second touchdown of the night, and Dean's extra point tied the score 17-17.

Each team had the ball in its opponent's territory late in the game, but could not score, and the game moved into overtime. Clemson quarterback Charlie Whitehurst hit Airese Currie over the middle at the two-yard line in the first overtime period, and Merriweather barreled in on the next play to give the Tigers their first lead of the night by a score of 24-17.

On Miami's possession, Brock Berlin hit Roscoe Parrish for 20 yards and a first down at the Tiger 10-yard line. Tyrone Moss ran for five yards, and two incomplete Berlin passes brought up fourth down. Berlin's last-gasp throw into the endzone sailed wide of Lance Leggett, and Clemson won in its first trip to the Orange Bowl since the 1982 Orange Bowl win over Nebraska.

The Tiger defense had 17 tackles for loss on the night, tied for the second-most in a game in Tiger history. It was Miami's first loss at home against a league opponent since 1998. It was also only Miami's third loss in their last 177 games when leading after three quarters.

By Kyle Tucker

Dexter Davis 1988-90

A cornerback with a knack for the big play, Dexter Davis led the ACC in interceptions (6) in 1990 on his way to a First Team All-ACC selection. Davis started 31 of the 35 career games he played in, and was a member of three 10-win teams from 1988-90. Playing in three bowl games, Davis helped the Tigers defeat Oklahoma in the Citrus Bowl, West Virginia in the Gator Bowl, and Illinois in the Hall of Fame Bowl by a combined score of 70-13. In fact, it was Davis who knocked down the potential game-winning pass from Jamelle Holieway of Oklahoma in the endzone on the final play of the game to preserve a 13-6 victory.

Currently, Davis is the head football coach at Southside Christian School in Greenville, SC. During the 2005 season, Southside will play nine games, four against schools in South Carolina and five against out-of-state teams, before entering the high school league in 2006. The opportunity to become the head coach at Southside was one Davis said he could not pass up.

"A friend of mine was here, and told me what kind of school Southside was and what it stood for," he said. "I was in graduate school at The Citadel, and I knew I wanted to get into coaching. This is a great school with a great support staff, and Southside is the ideal place for me. My kids are in school here, and it is really a great place for all of us."

Reflecting on his days as a Tiger, Davis recalls some of the high moments as well as the low. "Two games always stick out in my mind. The Citrus Bowl against Oklahoma was one of the higher moments in my career. However, I can't mention that game without mentioning the 1989 game at Duke. We were undefeated and ranked in the top 10. We had just beaten Florida State in Tallahassee, but we got beat at Duke after leading 14-0. The 1989 team was the most talented team I was on, and we should not have lost more than a single game in my opinion

(Clemson was 10-2 each of the three seasons Davis was a starter)."

Davis stays in touch with former teammates Derrick Witherspoon, Stacy Fields, Chester McGlockton, and Ed McDaniel. "I really enjoy talking to those guys or seeing them at weddings, those type of things" said Davis. "I love Clemson very much and look forward to coming back for the Miami game."

Jeff Scott 2000-02

A wide receiver who also served as the holder on all Clemson placekicks from 2000-02, Jeff Scott carried the ball five times on fake field goals in his career with four of those runs resulting in first downs. Scott scored what proved to be the deciding touchdown against Central Florida in 2001 with a 22-yard run in the Tigers' 21-13 season-opening victory. The son of Clemson Offensive Line Coach Brad Scott, Jeff turned his sights to coaching early on at Clemson.

"After my freshman year at Clemson, I decided that I wanted to major in Secondary Education (Math) so that I could teach and coach high school football when I graduated and finished playing for the Tigers," said Scott. "When I graduated in May of 2003, I felt like Ridge View High School in Columbia, SC would be a good place to start my coaching career. Ridge View had success in the mid 1990s, but had struggled the previous three years, so I felt that I might be able to help give them a spark offensively, and help them get back on the winning track."

He helped the Blazers to 21 offensive records during his two years with the school, and with a new high school opening right down the road, he saw an opportunity he did not know would come so quickly.

"I have been blessed at being in the right place at the right time," stated Scott. "I had dreams of being a head high school football coach before I was 28 years old. A brand new school (Blythewood High) was opening. I decided to go ahead and put my name in the hat for the job. It was a dream job for me, because everything would be brand new, and I thought it would be fun to have the chance to build a football program from the ground up."

At 24, Scott is one of the youngest head coaches in, not only South Carolina, the entire country. His Blythewood Bengal team will play a junior varsity schedule this season, and will play a full varsity schedule in AAA in 2006.

Scott works with former teammate Rusty Curry at Blythewood, and says he stays in touch with former teammates Aaron Hunt and Jackie Robinson. Two plays will always stick out in Scott's mind. Holding for Aaron Hunt in the final seconds on the kick that beat South Carolina 16-14 in 2000 was his favorite, and the touchdown run the next season against Central Florida was a close second.

Jeff Scott, son of Assistant Coach Brad Scott, became the head coach at Blythewood High School outside of Columbia, SC at age 24.

Sterling Smith 1948-50

A standout linebacker that played on two of Clemson's undefeated teams (1948,50), Sterling Smith made one of the most memorable plays in Tiger football history. Clemson finished the 1950 season with an 8-0-1 record and earned a trip to the Orange Bowl to play Miami (FL). Deemed as heavy underdogs by the media, the Tigers took a 13-0 lead before Miami took its first lead of the day 14-13 at the end of the third quarter. Miami was backed up inside its five-yard line, setting the stage for Smith.

"I've always joked with Don Wade that he caused that play," explained Smith. "I had been lining up in front of their guard all day, and they liked to pull their guards out on the toss play. Wade called a 'gap-seven' defense, which moved me over in front of the tackle. This allowed me to cheat over a little, and when they tossed it to (Miami tailback) Frank Smith, I was able to tackle him before he got out of the endzone."

The tackle by Smith resulted in a safety, and the Clemson defense was able to hold one final time in a 15-14 win. It is a play that everyone involved with will never forget.

"I finally got to meet Frank Smith down at the Orange Bowl in 2000, and he apologized for making me so famous," laughed Smith.

Smith worked in Spartanburg after his days at Clemson, and retired at the age of 67. Today, he plays golf three times a week and enjoys every minute of it.

"I get out on that golf course as much as I can, even after a hip replacement and two knee replacements," said Smith. "Football can sometimes take a toll on you."

Smith stays in touch with many of his former teammates, but says he stays in touch the most with the 1948 team. "Phil Prince does a great job of keeping our guys in touch. It seems like we have a reunion every year. I've been fortunate to be close with many of my former teammates."

Sterling Smith tripped up Miami's Frank Smith in the endzone for a safety to give the Tigers a dramatic 15-14 victory over the Hurricanes in the 1951 Orange Bowl.

Kyle Tucker, a second-year graduate student from Cartersville, GA, is a graduate assistant in the Clemson Sports Information Office.

Lady Tiger Soccer

2005 Season Preview

By Sam Blackman

A new look Clemson team enters the 2005 season excited for what the future holds. Although the loss of four starting defenders and two attacking players seems daunting, the staff is excited about the overall talent level of the team and the prospects for the 2005 season.

Clemson has five starters and 15 letterwinners returning from the 2004 team that finished with a 10-8-2 overall record and a 4-4-1 slate in ACC play. The season included victories at top-five teams Texas and Texas A&M, the first time any Clemson athletic team had won consecutive road games over different top-five opponents since the 1984 men's soccer team won at UCLA and Virginia on the way to the national championship. Head Coach Todd Bramble's team advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the 11th straight season, something it has done every year of its existence.

While defining the roles of the defenders will be the priority of the preseason, the Lady Tigers will once again be a very potent attacking team and deep at the goalkeeper position.

The Lady Tigers had a great recruiting season, and according to Bramble, this year's freshman class will be a great addition to the program. "We certainly have high hopes and expectations from this particular class. The talent level of this group is very good.

"What I love the most is the diverse qualities that we are adding to our team. There is a nice mixture of size, speed, and technical abilities to complement our returning players. Individually, each of these young ladies is passionate about Clemson, and I find it energizing that we are not only improving our soccer player, but our campus community as a whole."

Senior midfielder Allison Graham and the Lady Tiger soccer team will aim for their 12th NCAA Tournament appearance in the 12th year of the program's existence.

The schedule also affords another tough slate with 10 ACC foes, including new ACC member Boston College. William & Mary and Virginia Commonwealth are two prominent non-conference teams on the schedule. Clemson will also play host to the Carolina Cup with Furman, North Carolina-Charlotte, and South Carolina competing for the championship at Riggs Field.

Clemson will play host to league teams Maryland, Boston College, Virginia Tech, Miami (FL), Duke, and Florida State this fall.

Clemson will be deep at goalkeeper, as the Lady Tigers have two players with valuable experience competing for the starting role. After sophomore Ashley Phillips went down with an injury in the second game of the 2004 season, sophomore Lauren Johnston came in and had a great year for the Lady Tigers, as she started 17 games and finished the year with a 1.14 goal allowed average. She also had 56 saves and was named to the All-ACC Freshman team.

Phillips, who was in goal to open the season when Clemson won at Texas and Texas A&M, returned to the lineup and played in six matches. She finished the year with 26 saves and a 1.19 goal allowed average. Also returning to this position is sophomore Stephanie Permar, who played in two matches last season, and junior Sarah McClurg, who sat out last season due to injury.

"Although we have a new group of defenders, it will be a group that has a combination of experience and talent," said Bramble.

The fourth-year Tiger mentor has shifted veteran player junior Kelly Schneider to the defense and that will help immediately. In the spring, Schneider was changed to a defender, and according to Bramble, "She had a great spring and looked comfortable in her new position."

Schneider played in 18 games last year and scored six goals with two assists for 14 points as a forward.

Britten Meyer, who saw action in 20 matches in 2004, is also back for her junior season. She had four starts as a defender and will be a mainstay on defense. Junior Jess Shain will also vie for playing time.

Clemson added Molly Johnson from the talented freshman class. Johnson (Stuart, FL) was a member of the Region III ODP team. Other freshmen who could see time in the back include Anne Baldwin (Covington, LA) and Lia Schendel (Florence, SC). Baldwin was a member of the ODP Region III pool, and was an all-district and all-state performer. Schendel was a member of the South Carolina ODP team and was an all-state selection. Bramble is also hopeful Logan Hull can compete for playing time after an injury-filled 2004.

Leading the way in the midfield are 2004 All-ACC performer and senior Allison Graham and senior Lydia Vandenbergh. Graham finished the season with three goals and five assists for 11 points. Vandenbergh started all 20 matches in 2004, and finished the year with two goals and five assists for nine points.

Sophomore Elizabeth Jobe started all 20 matches as a freshman. She had two goals and one assist for five points and was named to the All-ACC Freshman team. Kim Faerber and Amber Funk also had very positive spring seasons.

Other freshmen who could see time in the midfield include Julie Bolt (Charleston, SC) and Sara Gulley (Burke, VA). Bolt was a member of the South Carolina ODP team and was named to the all-region team. She was named all-state, an NSCAA All-American, and the NSCAA Player-of-the-Year for the state of South Carolina.

Gulley was also named a NSCAA All-American and was a three-time all-region team selection. After a strong spring, Bramble will also be counting on Candice Hein for contributions in this area.

Clemson has many candidates competing for the forward positions. Junior Courtney Foster is the Lady Tigers' only returning starter in this area. She scored seven goals and had one assist for 15 points, and was named Second-Team All-ACC in 2004. She has been Clemson's top goal scorer each of the last two years.

Sophomore Jacquelyn Hines, who saw action in 18 matches, finished the season with two goals and five assists for nine points. Hines, daughter of Clemson Tight End Coach Jack Hines, came off the bench and added a spark to the Lady Tiger lineup during her freshman campaign.

Clemson has also added two freshmen from the state of Georgia to the roster, including Fraser Gerth (Roswell, GA) and Jenny Smith (Macon, GA). Gerth led her high school team in goals and assists. Smith was named all-state and led her high school team to numerous state championships.

Sam Blackman is Clemson's Associate Sports Information Director and is in his 19th year at Clemson.

SAFETY live with it

By Philip Sikes

Head Coach Bob Pollock is excited about the mixture of veteran leaders and talented newcomers that make up the 2005-06 men's track & field squad. Now in his 18th season in charge of the Tiger program, Pollock's cross country slate is already underway. Despite the loss of all-region performer Derrick Wyatt, the head coach feels the Tiger runners have a good chance to advance to the NCAA Championships as a team this fall. Clemson fell just three points shy of earning a team berth in 2004.

The Tigers' top returning cross country performers are Itay Magidi, Matt Clark, and Clay Pendleton. A native of Israel, Magidi also excels both indoor and outdoor on the track. Magidi was an all-region selection in 2004 and competed in last year's NCAA Championships. Clark not only earned all-region honors in cross country, but also placed in the 5000m and 10,000m at the ACC Outdoor Championships. Pendleton will provide leadership to the cross country team, as he is the squad's only senior.

Also expected to contribute this fall are Greg Isaacs, Jay Lumpkins, Sean Reilly, Brian Soder, and Eric Soder. Isaacs performed well in both the 5000m and 10,000m at the ACC Championships last season. Clemson has also added an exciting 2005 class of runners, including Sam Bryfczynski (Marietta, GA), Bryce Iverson (Manassas, VA), and Josh Elam (Port Saint Lucie, FL).

Magidi, a junior, returns as Clemson's top distance runner. He earned his second All-America certificate in the 3000m steeplechase a year ago when he finished seventh in the event at the NCAA Championships. He also won the ACC indoor 5000m event, and earned All-ACC honors in the 3000m and steeplechase.

Itay Magidi earned his second All-America certificate in the 3000m steeplechase at the 2005 NCAA Outdoor Championships.

Clemson returns a pair of talented sprinters who are expected to play a major role in the Tigers' success this season. However, Ronald Richards departed after a senior season in which he earned All-America honors in the 100m dash. The leading candidates to step up in his absence are junior Darius Acker and red-shirt freshman Corey Brown.

Acker returns having run the 200m, 400m, and indoor 4x400m relay last season. Brown was injured during the 2005 outdoor season, but will return as a key ingredient this year.

Pollock mentioned a few newcomers who will have a chance to contribute as sprinters. Orlando Brown, from Baltimore, MD, is expected to compete in the 100m, 200m, and sprint relays. Isaac Mullins (Conyers, GA) comes in with credentials in the 400m. Pollock also tabbed Travis Padgett, a state champion from Shelby, NC, as a key contributor. All will have the chance to help in the 400m relay, under the guidance of renowned Sprint Coach Charles Foster.

Roy Cheney returns to lead the hurdlers. The senior from Grovetown, GA is a two-time All-American, and was an All-ACC honoree last season in the 60m and 110m hurdles. Rashad Gardner will also compete as an intermediate and high hurdler. Gardner posted a regional-qualifying effort in both the 110m and 400m hurdles during the 2005 outdoor season. Junior Lydell Perry returns to help the hurdles group as well. Each of the hurdlers will also have the chance to aid Clemson in its sprint relays this season. Pollock has added depth in that area as well with incoming freshmen Andy Porter (Budd Lake, NJ) and George Fields (Columbia, SC).

Returning in the middle distance events will be sophomore Cowin Mills, who ran well in the 800m last season. He will be complemented by Brian Knapp, a transfer who has one year of eligibility remaining indoor and outdoor. Knapp competed in the 800m at the Division II National Championships. Freshmen Darrian Hodges (Columbia, SC) and Jay Nelson will also provide depth in the 400m and 800m.

Now in his seventh year as the assistant coach in charge of field event athletes, Jarrett Foster looks for big things out of his groups. Foster was named the 2005 East Region Assistant Coach-of-the-Year by the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA).

In the horizontal jumps, Jason Bell returns after advancing to the NCAA Outdoor Championships in the triple jump. He earned indoor All-ACC honors in the event, and Pollock hopes to see much of the same from Bell in the long jump. Replacing five-time All-American and school record-holder George Kitchens in the long jump will be a priority for the Tigers this season.

Fields, who also has the ability to help Clemson in relays, is expected to complement Bell in the two jumping areas.

Junior Adam Linkenauger returns as Clemson's top performer in the vertical jumps, as he has swept both the ACC indoor and outdoor high jump titles during each of his first two seasons.

The pole vault should be an area of strength among the field events. Mitch Greeley is a sophomore who earned All-ACC honors both indoor and outdoor last season. Over the summer, he won the silver medal in the event at the Pan American Junior Championships in Canada. Competing for time in that event will also be Kenny Knox and Bryan Gathers, both red-shirt freshmen.

Danny Alge returns as Clemson's top thrower from a year ago. He achieved the squad's top marks in both the weight throw and hammer throw last season. Alge is also a solid performer in the classroom, as he was named to the All-Academic Team by the USTFCCCA. He ranks fifth all-time in school history in the 35-pound weight throw and third all-time in the hammer throw.

Complementing Alge in the throws will be incoming freshmen Matt Feiling and Zach Berg.

The multi-event athletes are among the most talented on this year's squad. Ryan Koontz and Brent Hobbs return as good decathletes who both have different specialty areas, while Mike Feathers returns as a solid all-around decathlete.

Koontz earned All-ACC honors in the decathlon last season, and Pollock points to his ability to high jump as a reason to be excited. Koontz cleared 6'9" at the Orange & Purple event last year. Hobbs earned All-ACC honors in the pentathlon in 2005, and Pollock believes his specialty areas to be long jumping and hurdling. He also recorded Clemson's third-best time in the 60m hurdles last winter.

Philip Sikes is an Assistant Sports Information Director in his second year at that position at Clemson. He previously worked as a graduate assistant at Clemson for two years.

Kris Benson

Baseball • 1994-96

Kris Benson is arguably the most decorated player in Clemson baseball history. The 1996 National Player-of-the-Year, according to several publications, was the #1 pick of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the Major League Draft that same season, the only Tiger athlete to be the first overall selection.

Benson broke into the national scene in 1996, his junior season. He had been cut from the USA Team the previous summer, and was out to prove his ability and earn a spot on the Olympic Team.

In his first two seasons at Clemson, Benson won 15 total games and struck out a combined 152 batters. He then posted 14 victories and 204 strikeouts in 1996. His regular-season 1.40 ERA led the nation and his win total ranked third in the country. Benson was named the 1996 ACC Player-of-the-Year, and was a first-team All-America selection by Baseball America, Collegiate Baseball, the American Baseball Coaches Association, and the Smith Super Team. He also earned the IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year and Frank Howard Awards. With his numerous player-of-the-year honors, Benson became just the second Tiger athlete in history to be named best in the nation in any sport.

His statistics for the 1996 season rank first in five different categories in the Tiger recordbook, and five more are listed among the top 10. His 19 starts and four shutouts tie for first in school history for a single season. He holds the top spot with a 7.56 strikeout-to-walk ratio, 156.0 innings pitched, and 606 batters faced. For wins in a single season, Benson's 14 tie for second and his 204 strikeouts for the 1996 season are listed second as well. He also led the Tigers to back-to-back College World Series appearances in 1995 and 1996.

Benson not only made the 1996 U.S. Olympic Team, he became its #1 starter. He went undefeated during the team's pre-Olympic tour and won twice in the Olympic round-robin tournament, helping the United States team claim the bronze medal.

After postponing his professional career until the 1997 season due to the Olympic Games, Benson made his Major League debut with the Pirates on April 9, 1999. He defeated the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in Pittsburgh, and went on to lead all National League rookie pitchers in ERA, innings pitched, and strikeouts.

Benson is completing his first full year with the Mets after being acquired by the team in a deadline deal during the 2004 season. He is one of the Mets' top pitchers this year, as he had an 9-6 record as of September 7.

Kris Benson

He and wife Anna have three children. With Anna, the former Tiger has established Benson's Battalion, a non-profit corporation dedicated to supporting Pennsylvania police.

Greg Buckner

Basketball • 1994-98

Dependable. Defiant. Driven. Diligent. These are just a few words one could use to describe former Tiger basketball great Greg Buckner. Do not think that each beginning with the letter "D" was by accident, because "D," as in defense, is Buckner's specialty.

In his four years at Clemson, the Tigers ranked among the top 20 in the nation in scoring defense three times, including a sixth-place mark his freshman season. Buckner also holds the school record for steals by a freshman after collecting 63 in his first season, and his career mark of 179 steals ranks fourth in the recordbooks.

Many schools overlooked the then-physically undersized Hopkinsville, KY native, but former Head Coach Rick Barnes, then coach of the Providence Friars, saw heart and hustle. When Barnes left for Clemson, Buckner followed and turned in a spectacular freshman campaign.

Buckner averaged 12.0 points and 5.9 rebounds per game as a freshman and collected 58 assists, which earned him the ACC Rookie-of-the-Year Award, the Tigers' first and still only such honor.

Clemson fans' greatest memory of Buckner occurred during the 1996 ACC Tournament. With the score tied 73-73 against North Carolina, Buckner caught a pass from Harold Jamison with 0.6 seconds left and soared skyward for "The Dunk" to give Clemson the victory. The Tigers made the NCAA Tournament that season, and also earned invitations to the "Big Dance" in Buckner's junior and senior years. In five NCAA Tournament games, he averaged 14.4 points.

The Tigers opened the 1996-97 season against defending National Champion Kentucky at Indianapolis. Buckner played with extra incentive, as the Wildcats, the team he followed growing up, were one of the schools that failed to notice when he played high school ball nearby. They became aware that night, as Buckner played 36 minutes with a pulled hamstring, scoring 13 points, collecting six rebounds, and dishing out seven assists.

Buckner helped the United States win the gold medal at the World University Games in Trapani, Italy during the summer of 1997, as he averaged 24 minutes and 9.3 points in Team USA's six victories.

The two-time (97, 98) second-team All-ACC honoree's name covers the Clemson recordbooks, as he became just the third player in school history to record 1,000 points, 500 rebounds, and 200 assists in his career. Buckner led the Tigers in scoring all four years of his career, and is tied for first place in career double-figure scoring games (97) and fourth in scoring (1,754).

Buckner was drafted 53rd overall by the Dallas Mavericks in the 1998 NBA Draft, and he has spent seven seasons with the Mavericks, 76ers, and Nuggets. He just concluded his most productive NBA season with the Nuggets, where he averaged 6.8 points per game.

Aside from basketball, he has founded the Giving Back an Unconditional Commitment to Kids (GBUCK) League in his hometown of Hopkinsville, KY, where players receive not only basketball knowledge, but also lessons in avoiding drugs and the importance of an education.

Greg Buckner

Gigi Fernandez

Tennis • 1982-83

Gigi Fernandez cannot claim to be the Tigers' most decorated collegiate women's tennis player; she played only one year at Clemson before turning professional. However, she became a national figure in that lone season, reaching the finals of the 1983 NCAA Singles Championships before falling in a thrilling three-set match. The Puerto Rico native then went on to win 17 Grand Slam doubles titles and two Olympic gold medals.

Fernandez was named an All-American in singles after advancing past the round of eight in the national tournament and for her #5 final national ranking in the 1983 poll. She is still the only Tiger women's tennis player to reach the finals in the NCAA Tournament. In the NCAA Doubles Championships, Fernandez teamed with 2003 Clemson Hall of Fame inductee Jane Forman and reached the Elite Eight to earn her second All-America honor.

Her numbers for that single season are etched in the Clemson recordbook. Fernandez won 40 matches compared to only 7 losses, which tie her at third for victories in a season. Her 84 sets won are also listed third in school history. She and Forman compiled a 28-9 record as a doubles team, second most for a Tiger tandem.

After the 1983 season, Fernandez turned professional and became one of the best doubles players on the pro circuit. She won her first Grand Slam doubles championship at the U.S. Open in 1988, the first of five at Arthur Ashe Stadium. Fernandez completed the career Grand Slam in doubles in 1993 with her first Australian Open title.

In addition to the five U.S. Open doubles championships, Fernandez claimed four Wimbledon titles, six French Open crowns, and two Australian Open championships. She also won two Olympic gold medals in doubles competition, at the 1992 games in Barcelona and the 1996 games in Atlanta. In all, Fernandez won 68 doubles tournaments and two singles titles in her 14-year professional career.

She achieved the #1 doubles ranking in 1991 and remained at or near the top until her retirement in 1997.

As Puerto Rico's first professional woman athlete, Fernandez created the Gigi Fernandez Charitable Foundation in 1992. The organization hosts an annual tournament to raise money for various Hispanic and Puerto Rican charities.

In 2002, Fernandez became the head women's tennis coach at the University of South Florida, where she graduated cum laude in psychology in 2003. She resigned from the position after the 2005 season, when the Bulls had participants in the NCAA singles and doubles tournaments. She is currently serving as the coach of professional tennis players Lisa Raymond and Sam Stosur.

Dr. Byron Harder
Physician • 1972-05

Team physician Dr. Byron Harder has served not only the Clemson Athletic Department during his career, but has been an active member of the Clemson community for over 40 years. Harder graduated from Clemson in 1964 and then earned his degree from the Medical University of South Carolina in 1968. After serving a term in Vietnam, the Sumter, SC native returned to the States.

His tenure at Clemson was only supposed to be a temporary job, while he decided which practice to join in his hometown. Luckily for Tiger fans and student-athletes, he stuck around and officially retired recently after a 33-year tenure.

Harder knew from an early age that he wanted to study medicine. When other kids answered "cowboy" or "fireman," his response to the question, "What do you want to be when you grow up?" was "doctor." Harder witnessed the success of the many operations that his younger brother underwent to correct his club foot; and his family physician, beloved and respected by the whole community, became a role model.

Dr. Byron Harder

While at Clemson, Harder worked with thousands of student-athletes and was a part of all four of the Tigers' national championships. He described his most vivid memory as the soccer team's second title, which was won on Clemson's Historic Riggs Field.

"It was probably the most exciting thing to happen here on campus," he said.

Harder has also donated his time to numerous organizations outside of the university, in such roles as the leader of a Cub Scout Pack, the advisor to the Sigma Nu fraternity, and a member of the city planning commission. He has been extremely active at the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church of Clemson, and through the church has become involved with the Clemson Free Clinic. The medical facility, of which Harder is director, began as an outreach project and opened on Highway 76 last April.

He will continue to work at the clinic after his retirement from Clemson and looks forward to spending more time with his family, especially his grandchildren. He and his wife Mickey, the Director of the Brooks Center at Clemson, have two children. His son Bill played basketball at Clemson from 1994-97 and was a part of two NCAA Tournament teams. The elder Harder also plans on fishing more and being just a fan.

However, Harder will miss interacting with the students, and watching them come in as freshmen kids and leave as young men and women.

Cindy Stern-DeMartino
Volleyball • 1996-99

Although Cindy Stern-DeMartino will not be the first former Tiger volleyball player inducted into Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame (she is just the second), she has accomplished many other firsts in her career. The native of Cincinnati, OH was named to the 1999 American Volleyball Coaches Association All-America second team, becoming not only the first Clemson All-American in volleyball, but the first in ACC history.

Stern-DeMartino was also the first and only Tiger volleyball player to earn ACC Player-of-the-Year honors when she received the award in 1999. She was a member of the ACC's 50th Anniversary volleyball team, celebrating the top-50 athletes in their respective sports in the conference's first 50 years of existence. In addition, Stern-DeMartino was honored as one of the ACC's top-50 female athletes in history, regardless of sport, and the only former volleyball player to make the esteemed list that included world-known athletes Mia Hamm and Marion Jones.

Stern-DeMartino arrived at Clemson in 1996 and quickly made an impact. She was a member of the 1996 All-ACC Freshman team after recording 273 kills and 91 block assists, and earned All-ACC honors in 1997-99, including two first-team selections.

In 1997, she tallied 506 kills, 59 solo blocks, and 147 block assists to earn AVCA All-District honors. That year, Clemson won the ACC Tournament title, the first ACC championship in Clemson volleyball history.

As a senior, Clemson posted a 31-3 overall record and ranked #9 in the national volleyball RPI index. The 91.2-percent winning mark was the best by any Clemson sports team in the decade of the 1990s.

She participated in the USA National Team tryouts in the spring of 1998, and was one of 17 players selected to represent the United States. She was the lone ACC representative on the team. Stern-DeMartino postponed her graduation and joined the United States Professional Volleyball League's "Dream Team" in January of 2000. As a member of the team, she spent two years training and traveling before the league's inaugural season in 2002.

She returned to Clemson in the fall of 2000 to complete her degree in speech & communications and served as a student assistant coach under Jolene Jordan Hoover.

She is currently living in the Chicago, IL area, where she sells real estate with her husband Cliff of nearly four years.

Cindy Stern-DeMartino

Kenneth N. Vickery
NCAA Faculty Rep. • 1971-82

A 1938 alumnus, Kenneth N. Vickery has been serving Clemson University and Tiger athletics for the better part of 75 years. His posts and responsibilities have enabled him to encourage and assist students in achieving the highest standards of academic, athletic, and personal success.

After his graduation, Vickery remained at Clemson as an assistant to the registrar. He took a four-and-a-half-year hiatus to serve in the United States Army in World War II, but returned in 1949. He continued to work as an assistant registrar and took on additional responsibilities as the Director of Admissions.

The native of Hartwell, GA held his post as the Clemson University Registrar from 1955-70 before assuming the role of Dean of Admissions & Registration and Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs. During those years, Vickery tirelessly supported the athletic department as Clemson's NCAA Faculty Representative, a position he held for 12 years.

Vickery's commitment to the university extended beyond the borders of Clemson, SC. In 1976, he served a term as the president of the Atlantic Coast Conference. He was also the president of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars & Admissions Officers.

The Clemson Alumni Association tapped him with the Distinguished Service Award in 1977 for his dedication and devotion to Clemson University.

Upon his retirement in 1982, Vickery remained a lifelong supporter of his alma mater. The university rewarded his commitment by naming a building on campus after him.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991, becoming the first facility in the nation constructed solely for the all-around academic support of student-athletes. Clemson's Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs, which focus on each student-athlete's academic, athletic, career development, personal development, and service commitments, are housed in Vickery Hall.

It is only fitting that Clemson's academic learning center for student-athletes bears his name, as his distinguished career and personal accomplishments so vividly reflect Clemson University's pledge to support the academic success of its student-athletes.

Vickery is married to the former Evelyn Lancaster, with whom he has two children and numerous grandchildren.

Charles Warren
Golf • 1994-98

In case you are wondering why former Clemson golfer Charles Warren is worthy of induction into the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame, here are a few reasons: 1997 National Champion, 1997 and 1998

ACC Champion, 1998 Arnold Palmer Award winner, 1998 Dave Williams Award recipient (nation's top senior golfer).

Warren's game came alive late in the 1996-97 season, as he won the ACC Tournament with a four-under-par score.

He then finished third at the NCAA East Regional at the Homestead in Virginia before winning the national tournament in dramatic fashion.

The native of Columbia, SC was a full six shots behind the leader entering the final day of competition. He played the final six holes of the final round three-under par to put himself in contention, and then clinched the title with a par in the one-hole playoff. With the victory, he became the first ACC golfer to win the ACC and NCAA Tournaments in the same year. Warren was named the IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year for the performance.

He came close to repeating as champion in the 1998 when he finished one stroke behind the leader at 16-under par to earn second place. During his career, Warren was a three-time All-American, including a two-time, first-team honoree. He was named to the First-Team All-ACC in his sophomore, junior, and senior seasons.

Warren still holds the Clemson record for consecutive rounds played under par with 11, and is listed among the top 10 in Tiger history in 14 other categories.

Over his four years at Clemson, the Tigers participated in four NCAA Tournaments, won two NCAA East Region titles, and claimed two ACC Championships. They were ranked #21, #14, #3, and #2, respectively, in the final polls from 1995-98.

Warren earned an exemption for the PGA Tour in 1999 after successfully completing qualifying school. He was a member of the Nationwide Tour from 2000-04, playing in occasional PGA sponsored events. Warren finished tied for 37th place in the 2000 U.S. Open, held at Pebble Beach, with a +14 score.

After participating in only 10 tournaments during the 2001 season due to injury, Warren won his first professional title with a first-place finish at the 2002 BMW Charity Pro-Am in nearby Travelers Rest, SC.

Warren returned to the PGA Tour in 2005 after concluding the 2004 Nationwide Tour season at the #8 spot in the tour money list. He is currently ranked among the top 100 players on the PGA Tour money list this year, which will qualify him for membership for 2006. Warren and his wife Kelly reside in Greenville, SC.

Donnell Woolford
Football • 1985-88

Known not only as one of the best cornerbacks in Clemson history, but also as one of the elite in the National Football League, Donnell Woolford made his mark. The two-time All-American was the 11th overall pick by the Chicago Bears in the 1989 NFL Draft.

In his eight seasons with the Bears, Woolford started every game in which he played. He defended 153 passes in his career, including 145 with Chicago, and ranks third in Bears history with 32 career interceptions. Woolford earned a trip to the 1994 Pro Bowl after recording 101 tackles and 22 passes defended.

As a Tiger, the Fayetteville, NC native dominated the defensive backfield. Even with opponents avoiding his side of the football field during his junior and senior seasons, Woolford posted spectacular numbers. He allowed just 13 receptions during man-to-man coverage, and did not allow his respective wide receiver to make a single reception in the Georgia Tech, Virginia, North Carolina, and N.C. State ball games.

Woolford played only sparingly during his freshman season in 1985, mainly on special teams, as he was converting from a standout tailback in high school to a prominent Division I corner.

However, Woolford earned the starting job for the 1986 season and relinquished his first-team duty on only one occasion, due to injury, the rest of his collegiate career at Clemson.

He broke up 12 passes in 11 games that season and then posted 15 pass breakups in each of his final two years. The 1987 and 1988 marks tied for second in a single season in Tiger history, and the awards began to accumulate. Woolford was a candidate for the Jim Thorpe Award, given to the best defensive back in the country, in both 1987 and 1988. He was also one of three finalists his senior season.

Woolford also earned second-team All-America honors after the 1987 season. He joined former Clemson star safety and NFL Hall of Famer Terry Kinard as the only defensive backs to be two-time All-Americans when he was a consensus selection in 1988.

He also became the first player in Clemson history to record double-digit pass breakups in three different seasons. His 20 passes defended in the 1987 season are second most in Clemson history for a single season. Woolford still holds school records for career pass breakups (44) and passes defended (54).

Also a threat on special teams, Woolford averaged 15.0 yards per punt return during the 1988 season, the third-best mark in the nation. He ranks among the top 10 in both punt return yardage and average in the Tiger recordbooks, and his 754 career yards are second in Clemson and 13th in ACC history.

Woolford was part of a resurgence of Tiger football in the late 1980s. During his final three seasons, the Tigers lost just six games combined and finished in the top 20 of the AP poll each season. The Tigers won consecutive bowl games over Stanford, Penn State, and Oklahoma. Woolford was especially important in the win over the Sooners, the first time an ACC team had defeated Oklahoma on the gridiron.

Woolford retired from professional football in 2000 and returned to Fayetteville in 2003. He and his wife continue to live in his hometown with their four children.

The Last Word

Bob Bradley

By Tim Bourret

Today is a landmark day for the sports information industry. For the first time ever, a sports information director will be inducted into a Division I school's Ring of Honor, complete with display on the facade of its stadium structure.

That is the honor that will be accorded former Clemson Sports Information Director Bob Bradley for his 45 years of service to his alma mater. It is a great day for his family, for those of us who worked for him, and everyone in the sports information field.

I hesitate to say, "Most of you didn't know Bob Bradley personally." It has been almost five years since his death, and most sports information directors are behind-the-scenes employees who put their coaches and players in the forefront of the public.

But, everywhere I traveled with "Mr. B" in our 23 years working together, we were stopped by an old personal friend. Getting him out of the press box after a road game was a chore, because he had to wish everyone a good day. Twice we missed the team bus on football road trips, but there was never a problem finding someone willing to take Mr. B to the airport to catch the team plane.

But, the fans who did not know him personally certainly benefited from his work. You will notice today that the icon next to his name on the facade of Death Valley is a typewriter, a symbol of his down-home writing style that brought Clemson athletics to the forefront of the sports page, radio, or television broadcasts for 45 years.

He was the author of "The Last Word" in the football program for many years. In those articles and press releases, he told us of the legend of Howard's Rock, the tradition of Running Down the Hill, and the legendary performances of Banks McFadden, Fred Cone, Steve Fuller, and Jeff Davis. And most of all, he recreated those great Frank Howard stories. He had a million of them and wrote a book about Howard when he retired in 1989, the same year Howard was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

When Howard was inducted in New York in 1989, Bradley was by his side. They could have put them in the Hall of Fame together, because they were quite a pair. Howard had great wins at Clemson, 165 in all, and his 30-year era at Clemson is still the third-longest tenure for one coach at a school. But, his overall contributions to the game as one of the classic Southern football legends, a legend that Bradley spread, had as much to do with his induction as any victory.

While Howard won a lot of awards during his career and in retirement, so did Bradley. I would be hard pressed to say who had a larger trophy case. Bradley won the Arch Ward Award as the man-of-the-year among college sports information directors on a national basis in 1973. He was president of CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America) and was inducted into the Sports Information Hall of Fame 14 years prior to his retirement. Many of the basic ways an SID performs his or her daily activities today were initially devised by Bradley. He was inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame, the Gator Bowl Hall of Fame, the South Carolina Hall of Fame...I could go on and on.

Respect is the first word that comes to mind when I think of Bob Bradley. A month before his death on October 30, 2000, he reached a milestone in his career by working his 500th consecutive Tiger football game. That was quite an accomplishment, because he was fighting bone cancer the last two years of his life. When he reached the 500-mark at Duke in September that year, Head Coach Tommy Bowden presented him with the gameball in front of the team in the lockerroom. It was a first for Bowden, and the only gameball he presented in his first six years as Clemson head coach.

His drive to reach 500 straight football games was a demonstration of physical and mental toughness that I will remember the rest of my life. The last two weeks of the streak, he spent Monday to Thursday going through radiation and chemotherapy treatments, followed by rest in bed. Late in the week, he would take steroids, and by Saturday, he had a smile on his face as he made it to the press box. He kidded that he would not have been allowed to compete in the Olympics in Sydney that year. I do not know if they keep national medical records, but Mr. B went through 136 chemotherapy treatments during his courageous battle against the disease.

Here are some facts surrounding the events of his final days that give credence to the claim that he was one of the most respected and admired administrators in the history of this institution:

- When he reached his milestone 500th straight Tiger football game at Duke on September 30, the Duke Athletic Department waived a 60-year rule prohibiting the posting of banners in Wallace Wade Stadium. They figured Wade himself, a personal friend of Frank Howard, would have wanted it that way. IPTAY proudly posted a "Congrats on 500 Consecutive Games Mr. B" in full television view.
- Over 600 people attended his funeral at United Methodist Church in Clemson on November 1, 2000. Attendance records of this nature do not exist (if anyone would have kept them, it would have been Mr. B). The attendees at the funeral included ACC Commissioner John Swofford, athletic officials from South Carolina (including Dr. Mike McGee), Georgia and the other ACC schools, former Clemson coaches, current Clemson coaches, athletes and administrators, and legends of sports writing and broadcasting.

• The Saturday after his funeral, the Florida State Athletic Department acknowledged his contribution to the ACC by observing a moment of silence prior to the Clemson-Florida State game in Tallahassee. I have never heard of a school honoring someone with the visiting team in that nature.

- ABC Sports aired a testimonial to Mr. B during its November 4 broadcast. What was unusual was that Clemson was not even playing in the game; it was shown during the Maryland-N.C. State game.
- He was presented with the Order of the Palmetto from the Governor of South Carolina, the highest civilian honor bestowed by the state, two days prior to his death.

Mr. B treated everyone with the same high level of respect; that is why he received so much respect in return. Author John Feinstein once told me Bradley treated him the same whether he was a student writer with the Duke Chronicle or a feature writer with Sports Illustrated. That is why he always held him in high regard, as did the national media.

As you attend today's game, ask yourself, "Why am I a Tiger fan?" Chances are, you love the Tigers because you know about all of Clemson's legendary players, coaches, and traditions. You know about them because of Bob Bradley and the long hours he spent promoting the Tigers for 45 years.

When he was laid to rest on November 1, 2000, United Methodist Church Minister Rev. Dr. George K. Howle gave a terrific eulogy to Bradley (words equaled only by the thoughts of Mr. B's granddaughter Amanda). Howle said it best.

"Bob Bradley is the spirit of Clemson."

Tim Bourret is Clemson's Sports Information Director and is in his 28th year at Clemson.
